Lana Conforti

Lana Conforti is an Economist in the section of Index Analysis and Public Information for the Producer Price Index (PPI) Program of the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), where she has worked for 6 years. In this role, she assists customers daily with interpreting and applying PPIs, often for contract price adjustments.

Conforti also co-authors the PPI News Release and coordinates publication of PPI products on the BLS website. Mrs. Conforti earned a B.S. in Economics from Christopher Newport University and a M.S. in Applied Economics from the University of Maryland.

Being a former theater major, she has not been able to get the song “Kansas City” from the musical “Oklahoma!” out of her head since finding out she would be presenting here today.
