“When I learned of BGS, I knew it was what I was looking for. Only after joining did I realize the many other benefits of active membership, especially the networking and leadership opportunities. The more I got involved, the more I benefitted from this wonderful organization.”

-Susan, DePaul University
Every month, our free webinar series brings together thought leaders from top organizations to share their advice, insight, and knowledge to give BGS members an exclusive advantage as they seek jobs or look for professional development opportunities. Since the start of the series, we have had speakers from organizations like KPMG, AICPA & CIMA, IE Business School, and Korn Ferry join us to share their unique perspectives on the career landscape.

BGS believes business is a force for global good, which is why in late 2021 we partnered with the SDGs Launch project to bring members a conference that connected, educated, and empowered them to be catalysts for change in their communities. Those who participated were able to reflect and build on their understanding of sustainable development.

Over the course of the four-day conference, the 100+ participants engaged in multiple speaker series from United Nations representatives; a keynote presentation from Jean Oelwang, Founding CEO and President of Virgin Unite; workshops exploring various sustainability topics; and a case challenge that gave participants the opportunity to work with members from other universities.
From 1963 to 1999, Beta Gamma Sigma presented the National Honoree Award to individuals who furthered the ideals of the Society through outstanding business and managerial leadership.

Since 2000, the Society has presented an International Honoree Award. This year, the BGS Board of Governors is pleased to announce the selection of Arlene Isaacs-Lowe, Managing Director – Special Advisor, Moody’s Corporation, as the Society’s 2022 International Honoree.

Dr. Coleen Wilder
Associate Professor, College of Business at Valparaiso University

Dr. Wilder began her career as a mathematics teacher in the public schools. Soon after, she was recruited by local industry to participate on the front lines of the computer revolution. She started her new career as a programmer in the steel industry and finished as the highest-ranking woman in the company, managing all its technology needs. Dr. Wilder’s love of teaching brought her back to academia; this time as a professor at a small private institution, Valparaiso University.

During her tenure, she has made a difference in curriculum offerings, service, and the school’s Beta Gamma Sigma chapter. She added an Analytics major to the curriculum for undergraduate students and quickly followed by changing the focus of Operations to Supply Chain to be consistent with industry demands. She received an Outstanding Public Service award from the University’s Fraternity and Sorority community for her work with Engineers Without Borders and her numerous disaster relief trips. She was twice nominated for the University’s Distinguished Teaching award and during Women’s History Month was described as "a role model who spent her career breaking gender barriers and inspiring her students to make the most of their talents.” Every year, she tries to add something new to the Beta Gamma Sigma chapter activities. This focus on continuous improvement, has increased the society’s presence in the College of Business, the University, and the community.

Dr. Wilder earned her Bachelor’s degree from Indiana University, majoring in Mathematics. She earned her MBA from the University of Chicago with concentrations in Finance and Statistics and finally she earned her PhD from Illinois Institute of Technology in Management Science.

Since your university has already received AACSB accreditation, the only remaining steps to start the process include:

- Submitting a letter of intent to establish a chapter. A sample letter can be found here. Once received, BGS staff will contact you to arrange payment of the one-time 1000 USD chartering fee.
- Identifying and appointing Chapter Advisors.

If you have any questions or wish to begin the process to establish a BGS chapter, please contact the Beta Gamma Sigma Global HQ team at chapters@betagammasigma.org.

The council provides advisors with more opportunities to connect with each other and gives them a louder voice at BGS. They’re available to help with:

• Strategies that could make a difference across the whole organization.

• Best practices for chapters.

BGS and the CAC want to see your chapter succeed! If you have ideas or questions for the council, email chapteradvisorcouncil@betagammasigma.org.
