Tom Becker is the Development Director for the Jerome J. Lohr College of Engineering. Tom is a native of Humboldt, SD and earned a B.S. in Agricultural Engineering from South Dakota State University in 1981. For the past 21 years, Tom has worked with Daktronics (Brookings, SD) focusing on business development, sales and sales management activities for this South Dakota based company. Tom will be providing an update from SDSU and their Construction Management program.

Linda Halliburton is a “re-plant” to the Sioux Falls community. Leaving after earning a bachelor’s degree from Augie, she went into the sales world before pursuing advanced degrees in learning and development. Her work has always been about that connection between education and business, and how to help people maximize their potential and add value to their employer. You can find Linda today at the University of South Dakota Beacom School of Business where she is busy developing short courses for busy professionals and working with the graduate business programs.

Combining a wealth of practical knowledge with high energy and a straightforward approach to Interpersonal problem solving skills, Gary McCann is a favorite among seminar leaders. Spanning a 32-year career before retirement as a manager with the United States Postal Service and more than 22 years of management experience in the technical and business field Gary brings more than expertise ... he brings experience. His humor and ‘learning is fun’ style of delivery makes audience participation fun and effective. His philosophy to Think Positively. Act Powerfully. Communicate Effectively. Guides participants to become more effective and productive both professionally and personally.

Gary is a graduate of the United States Postal Service’s Advanced Leadership Program and a Toastmaster with a designation of ACB (Advanced Communicator Bronze). Gary is a Corporate Speaker with a designation of IACS (International Association of Corporate Speakers). His columns on the subject of Interpersonal Communication have been published in the Sioux Falls Business Journal. He resides with his wife Linda of 48 years in Sioux Falls SD and has four children and ten grandchildren.

Gary McCann will be speaking on Conflict - Resolution and Effective Communication Skills. Conflict is an inevitable part of our lives. So if it is inevitable, what can we do about it? Resolve it!!
