The Basics of Construction Accounting Workshop is designed for accounting professionals new to the construction industry as well as non-accounting construction industry professionals who want or need a better understanding of construction accounting processes, construction cost management systems, job costs and job cost reporting, the WIP, and the most important elements of a contractor's financial statements. This one-day class presents an introduction to the key processes that make construction accounting unique.

8.0 CPE Credits in the Field of Accounting

This is a Group Live Program at the Basic Level.

No prerequisite or advanced preparation required.

Upon completion of this one day workshop, you will be able to:

- Identify key construction accounting principles.
- Explain the core points of revenue recognition.
- Discuss the importance of a job cost system.
- Calculate earned revenue.
- Identify what a construction company expects from its financial manager.
- Use industry data to benchmark your company.

"The Basics" Workshop begins with an overview of the construction industry, then moves from the contract life cycle to job costing issues to financial reporting concerns and beyond. The workshop uses a sample contractor, a variety of problems, and several exercises that enable participants to evaluate real-life situations. But, this is not purely a "textbook course." As a participant, you are encouraged to share your own perspectives and to trade "war stories" during the case studies and general discussion segments of the program. You'll come away with a deeper and broader understanding of construction accounting and financial management.
