Title Pursuing Racial Equity within Schools

Abstract Motivated by a desire to support the use of local data and multiple perspectives in policy development, I propose an adaptable, iterative process (CODAP) for data-driven decision making. CODAP refers to the key action steps of the process: Collect, Organize, Describe, Analyze, Prescribe. Taken in order, these action steps define a path of inquiry from observation (data) to informed response (policy). This talk will introduce the framework and provide an example of how the process is supporting racial equity work and policy analysis in a suburban school district.

Time and venue 6pm with snacks at 5:30pm. Colorado School of Mines campus, Brown Hall Room W210
