BYLAW II: Membership

SECTION 1. Membership in NACE INTERNATIONAL shall be comprised of six (6) categories: member, senior member, life member, student member, sustaining and corporate member. Admission to any category shall require approval of a completed application whereby the applicant meets all requirements thereof. Procedures, which have been established by the Board of Directors (hereinafter called the "Board,") shall be followed to approve applications.

A member "in good standing" in any membership category is defined as one whose membership dues are current.

SECTION 2. Member Category: An individual who is a member in good standing and who is concerned with the control of corrosion and degradation of materials.

SECTION 3. Senior Member Category: An individual who is a member in good standing, and who is at least 65 years of age, and has been a member for at least 15 years. Dues for this category will be one-half of the dues charged for the Member Category.

SECTION 4. Life Member Category: An honorary category of membership awarded by the Board upon the recommendation of an Activity Committee. The member shall have full rights and privileges of membership for life without being assessed annual dues.

Any member who has maintained continuous membership in the Association for a period of thirty-five (35) years and is at least 65 years of age, shall become a Life Member automatically upon reaching that anniversary.

A member who has served the Association as President or Treasurer becomes a life member automatically after completion of the term of office.

SECTION 5. Student Member Category: A student regularly enrolled full time in an educational institution that is interested in the acquisition or advancement of knowledge relating to corrosion control and materials degradation. An individual can retain a student membership for a maximum period of seven (7) years. Eligibility for student membership shall cease upon termination of such full time enrollment in an educational institution. Student members shall receive the official publication distributed to all members and have all privileges of membership except holding office and voting, other than in the student section.

SECTION 6. Sustaining Member Category: An individual engaged or interested in corrosion control and materials degradation, subject to the approval by the Chief Executive Officer and ratification by the Board.

SECTION 7. Corporate Member Category: a company, corporation, public utility, scientific association or society, governmental (international, national, state/provincial, or local) board, commission or department, or other body or organization engaged or interested in corrosion control and materials degradation.

Each corporate member shall be entitled to designate one representative as provided for in these BYLAWS. Any additional representatives of a sponsoring member organization must hold membership under one of the other four (4) categories to enjoy the benefits and privileges of the Association. The name of the corporate member representative shall appear on the membership roster as they have the same rights and privileges of an individual member.

There shall be four (4) classes of corporate members: Iron, Silver, Gold, and Diamond. (Refer to Area Coordination Committee Operating Manual.)

Corporate member organizations, upon due notice to the Chief Executive Officer, may change their representative. When such a change is made, the successor representative shall not be entitled automatically to any office, directorship, trusteeship, or committee membership held by a predecessor representative in the Association. All such positions in the Association are earned by individuals and may not be inherited by successor representatives.

SECTION 8. All members, other than student members, shall have equal voting rights. Student members shall not be counted in the membership totals for voting on Association issues.

SECTION 9. All members shall be subject to disciplinary actions and sanctions, up to and including termination of membership, upon the finding that the member has engaged in unethical conduct or violated any of the Association's policies. Disciplinary actions shall be taken in accordance with Association policies and procedures. The Board shall review procedures used and the factual determinations made in any disciplinary action taken by the Policy Committee or the Quality Control Committee and act as a final court of appeals upon written request of the affected member. The Board may (i) reverse or modify the disciplinary actions as set forth in Section 7 of BYLAW VI, (ii) uphold the disciplinary action, (iii) determine that the Association is not the appropriate body to address or resolve the issue or dispute, (iv) suspend the Association's consideration of the conduct while the matter is pending with another organization or in a court of law, or (v) take any other action with respect to the conduct at issue that the Board determines is in the best interests of the Association.

SECTION 10. A member in good standing may resign from the Association, without rebate of membership dues, by giving written notice to the Chief Executive Officer. Any member who has resigned or been dropped for nonpayment of dues may be reinstated by the Chief Executive Officer upon payment of the dues payable for the year of reinstatement.
