STUDENT SECTION OF THE MONTH

Curious about what other student sections are up to? Looking for ideas to grow your own student section?

The National Technical University of Athens' SNAME student section initiated annual speaking programs by distinguished professors and started an eNewsletter to keep the members and the naval architecture community updated about their activities. Their efforts have increased their student section membership by 47% since last January!

STUDENT OF THE MONTH

Dimitris Mytilinis grew up in Athens, Greece. When he was young, he liked to play with things that were relevant to engineering, and had even built some wooden model ships. His interest for engineering and the Greek shipping tradition lead him to a career in Naval Architecture, and he was accepted as one of the top ranked entrants in the 2009 entry class of the highly reputed National Technical University of Athens. Now, studying in the fourth year of the five year MEng program, he is working at a Ship Management Company located in a suburb of Athens.
