

Mia Baytop Russell, MBA, AFC®, Ph.D. is a Lecturer in the Johns Hopkins University Center of Leadership Education. Grounded in principles and processes of leadership, entrepreneurship, and communication, she teaches undergraduate and graduate courses designed to help students succeed and lead in a wide range of professional settings. Her courses include Foundations of American Enterprise, Engineering Leadership and Management, Professional Communication: Closing the Racial Wealth Gap, and Managing Personal Finances.

Mia Baytop Russell

Lecturer, Center for Leadership Education
Whiting School of Engineering
Johns Hopkins University

She has over twenty-five years of experience in the public and private sectors. Prior to joining Johns Hopkins, Mia was the Program Lead and Vice President for Financial Education and Youth Financial Health Philanthropy at the Wells Fargo Foundation. In this role, she was responsible for national financial education efforts as well as the philanthropic strategy for youth (K-College). She also served as an Extension Educator at the University of Maryland Extension leading financial education programming and community outreach in Central Maryland. In this role, she served on the Health Insurance Literacy Initiative (HILI) team and developed an award-winning youth entrepreneurship program.

Mia prioritizes service and currently serves on the Board of Directors for the American Association of Family and Consumer Sciences (AAFCS). Mia was elected to serve as the 2021-2022 AAFCS Treasurer.

As a contributor to the field of financial education and organizational behavior, Mia has developed financial education programs for a variety of audiences, published several articles, and conducted numerous domestic and international presentations. Her practice and research interests focus on financial well-being and work-related well-being.