Welcome & Introduction

Commemorative Centennial Information

AAFCS, 100 Years of Shaping the Future for Individuals, Families and Communities

Nearly one hundred years ago, men and women met in the idyllic location of Lake Placid, New York, to set the course for a new discipline. They were all interested in elevating the many areas in domestic science, arts, and economy to a level of a recognized discipline, with a rigorous, scientific, prescribed course of study at the college and university levels. Led by Ellen Swallow Richards, first woman graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) and a recognized visionary, their intent was to begin the process of applying scientific research and study to solve some of the practical health, safety, nutrition, and quality of life problems of the times, both in the home and the communities. They formed a coalition, established in 1909 as the American Home Economics Association (AHEA). As times changed, the name changed as well to what we now know as the American Association of Family & Consumer Sciences (AAFCS).

Today, AAFCS is the only national not-for-profit 501 (c)(3) organization providing leadership and support to FCS students and professionals in multiple practice settings. AAFCS members are elementary, secondary, and post-secondary educators, researchers, and administrators; Cooperative Extension educators; and other professionals in business and industry, not-for-profit organizations, and government. These professionals help individuals, families, and communities make informed decisions about their well-being, relationships, and resources to achieve optimal quality of life. With national headquarters based in Alexandria, Virginia, AAFCS has 52 affiliates located across the United States and Puerto Rico.

Ellen Swallow Richards, AAFCS Founder

Born in 1842 to Peter and Fanny Swallow in Dunstable, Massachusetts, Ellen Swallow was home schooled and then attended the Westford Academy. In 1868, she enrolled at Vassar College as a third-year student and graduated in two years. In 1870, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) admitted Ellen, the first woman, as a student and at no charge. She realized what a leap she was making as the first woman to enter any scientific school. “Is this not honor enough for the first six months of post collegiate life?” she confided in a friend. “I hope in a quiet way I am winning a way which others will keep open.” For the next four years, she was a student, student assistant, and assistant in a chemistry lab. She graduated with a bachelor’s degree in chemistry in 1873 and a master’s degree from Vassar that same year. In 1875, she married Mining and Mineralogy Professor Robert Richards.

After campaigning vigorously at MIT for a chemistry lab where women could attend, Ellen’s vision was realized in 1876. Women now had a place to become trained in advanced sciences. Due to her success with the chemistry lab, one of her professors chose her to assist him in testing water samples. Ellen’s work with air and water quality led in 1883 to an instructor position at MIT in sanitary chemistry, a position she held until her death. Ellen learned early in her professional life to align herself with others who believed as she did. She was involved with the Women’s Education Association and other women’s groups. Although she distanced herself from the Women’s Suffrage Movement, she was a major force in improving the living and working conditions for women and children in the New England area. The New England Kitchen and the Rumford Kitchen at the 1893 Columbia World’s Fair Exposition in Chicago were examples of her involvement. Through the New England Kitchen, Ellen established the first school lunch in the U.S. in Boston, Massachusetts, in 1894.

In order to professionalize home economics and mold it into a career track for college-educated women, Ellen knew it had to be standardized, systematized, and upgraded. The Lake Placid Conferences, begun in 1899, were the beginnings of her efforts to legitimize the home economics profession. By December of 1908, the group of Lake Placid participants was successful in elevating their passion for the discipline to their ultimate goal: the American Home Economics Association was finally a reality. During the succeeding 100 years, the name would evolve to the American Association of Family & Consumer Sciences (AAFCS). Ellen once said that it matters not what we call it. The results are what we are after.

In 1910, Smith College conferred upon Ellen the honorary degree of doctor of science in recognition of her many accomplishments. Her legacy lives on through the efforts of the New York Affiliate of AAFCS, as she was enshrined in the Women’s Hall of Fame in Seneca Falls, New York, in 1993.

American Association of Family & Consumer Sciences
Centennial Anniversary
Knoxville, TN

Dear Friends:

On behalf of the State of Tennessee I would like to congratulate and welcome the American Association of Family and Consumer Sciences on your centennial anniversary at your annual conference in Knoxville, Tennessee on June 25-27, 2009. This is quite a milestone!

I would like to take this opportunity to commend you on your efforts in the community by providing support for professionals whose work assists individuals and families. Families are the foundation of healthy societies and I am confident that you will continue to provide research and these valuable services for years to come.

Again, please accept my congratulations and welcome for your event. I wish you success in all of your future endeavors.

Warmest regards,

Phil Bredesen

Welcome to Knoxville!

It’s my pleasure to welcome you to Knoxville for the American Association of Family & Consumer Sciences’ 100th Annual Conference and Expo.

I hope you and your colleagues have a marvelous time taking part in this centennial celebration and conference. It’s a great honor for our city to host this 100th gathering of a group dedicated to improving the lives of individuals and families throughout our nation.

I hope all of you take something away from this conference that helps you in your efforts.

In addition to attending conference activities, I also hope that you take time to explore some of the unique historical and cultural sites in Knoxville and the surrounding area. We have a lovely downtown that features many entertainment, dining and shopping opportunities.

In addition there are attractions like the Women’s Basketball Hall of Fame, the Knoxville Museum of Art, the Museum of East Tennessee History, and the observation deck of the Sunsphere, where you can enjoy a 360-degree view of Knoxville.

Thanks again for visiting Knoxville. I hope you enjoy your stay and come back soon.

Sincerely,

Bill Haslam
Welcome to the AAFCS 100th Annual Conference & Expo, Knoxville, TN

DEAR FRIENDS AND COLLEAGUES,

On behalf of the Board of Directors and the staff of the American Association of Family & Consumer Sciences (AAFCS), we are proud and pleased to welcome you to the AAFCS 100th Annual Conference & Expo, Celebrating the Past, Sustaining the Future! Whether you want to learn more about “going green,” sustaining the FCS profession, or participating in the new AAFCS Pre-Professional Assessment and Certification program, you’ll find a session or event to meet your needs. And, you’ll have the opportunity to be part of history and celebrate a century of AAFCS!

We encourage you to take a few moments to review our exceptional program on pages 18-55, which lists details for all conference sessions, meetings, and events. After reviewing the program, use the Planning Page on page 11 to make the most of your time in Knoxville. If you are new to AAFCS, the First-Time Attendee and New Member Orientation on Thursday, hosted by the AAFCS Membership Committee, is a great place to learn more about the conference before you start planning.

The conference is also the ideal time to network and share ideas with members of your AAFCS Communities and leaders of the Association. On Thursday morning, meet with Community members or join a Community at “Members United: AAFCS Communities.” Later that day, there will be a “Dialogue With the Directors” in the Expo where you can interact with the 2008-2009 AAFCS Board of Directors. On Friday afternoon, come to “Meet and Speak With Past Presidents” and the Open Forum to discuss important Association issues.

In addition to the numerous networking and learning opportunities at the conference and in the Expo, we hope you will join us in commemorating the AAFCS Centennial. Participate in the Reunions and Celebration on Saturday evening, view the affiliate displays, and attend sessions throughout the conference that reflect on FCS history and directions for the future.

Thank you for choosing the AAFCS 100th Annual Conference & Expo to advance your professional development and help usher in a new century of AAFCS. We look forward to sharing this momentous occasion in FCS and AAFCS history with you!

Sincerely,

Shelly Nickols-Richardson, Ph.D., R.D.

Attendance at the Annual Conference and the Expo is by registration badge only; admission to all events, sessions, and the Expo is restricted to those with a registration badge.

Advance Ticket Sales
Tickets for AAFCS-sponsored meals and special events must be purchased in advance. Because AAFCS must guarantee meal reservations prior to the opening of the conference, meal tickets will not be sold, exchanged, or refunded onsite.

Bookstore
Open Thursday, June 25, Friday, June 26, and Saturday, June 27, the AAFCS Bookstore is located in Expo Hall B of the Knoxville Convention Center and has the same hours as the Expo. Several publications and other items of interest will be available for sale.

The Bookstore hours are:
Grand Opening: Thursday; 4:30-7:00pm
Friday; 9:30am-5:00pm
Saturday; 9:00am-1:00pm

Communication Devices
The use of cellular phones and pagers is prohibited during general sessions and educational presentations. Please turn off these devices as a matter of courtesy to the presenter as well as to other attendees. Thank you.

Endorsements
Presentation of a program or advertisement of a product, service, or viewpoint should not be construed as an endorsement by the American Association of Family & Consumer Sciences.

Educational Excursions
Tickets for the Tennessee Educational Excursions must be purchased in advance. Inquire about availability at the Local Arrangements Committee Information Desk operated by the Tennessee Affiliate (TAFCS) near the AAFCS Registration Desk.

Educational Objectives
Participants in the AAFCS 100th Annual Conference will be able to:
- Build on the reputation earned and knowledge gained over the 100-year history of AAFCS to help AAFCS sustain its future.
- Examine sustainability at the individual, family, organizational, and community levels.
- Incorporate knowledge gained about sustainability into programming that promotes alternatives to excessive consumption.
- Analyze how decisions and behaviors affect natural resources, esthetic qualities, social diversity, and economic development.
- Investigate the influence of human and social capital on current and future generations from a national and global perspective.
- Assess the current roles of family and consumer sciences professionals and recommend changes for a sustainable future.

Expo
Open Thursday, June 25, Friday, June 26, and Saturday, June 27, the Expo is in Expo Hall B of the Knoxville Convention Center. Companies and organizations from across the United States will present the latest information on new products and services. Because of insurance, children under 16 must be accompanied by an adult at this educational event.

Expo hours are:
Grand Opening: Thursday; 4:30-7:00pm
Friday; 9:30am-5:00pm
Saturday; 9:00am-1:00pm

First Aid/Emergencies
For minor first aid, come to the AAFCS Registration Desk. If an ambulance is needed, call the Knoxville Convention Center security office at 865-251-6060 to give the location of the victim and they will call for an ambulance.

Local Arrangements Committee Information Desk
The Local Arrangements Committee is hosting an information desk near the AAFCS Registration Desk. They will have information about Knoxville and the surrounding areas, the Annual Conference, and restaurant services. The AAFCS message board will also be in this area.

Lost and Found
The lost and found is located at the AAFCS Registration Desk.

Parking
Self-parking at the Hilton Knoxville is $10.00 per day; valet parking is $14.00 per day.

Self-parking at the Holiday Inn Select at the Convention Center is $4.00 per day (special AAFCS rate).

There are several parking garages conveniently located near the Knoxville Convention Center.

The committees, communities, and affiliates of AAFCS offer a number of products for sale during the conference. Sales tables are located in the AAFCS Registration Desk area.

Products are available for purchase during the following hours:
Friday; 9:30am-5:00pm
Saturday; 9:00am-1:00pm
General Information

Professional Development Credit
Professional Development Units (PDUs) for CFCS Professionals
The Certified in Family and Consumer Sciences (CFCS) professional credential is the most credible national credential a family and consumer sciences professional can achieve. AAFCS offers three CFCS credentials: (1) Certified in Family and Consumer Sciences (CFCS), broad field credential; (2) Certified in Human Development and Family Studies (CFCS-HDFS), concentration credential; and (3) Certified in Hospitality, Nutrition, and Food Science (CFCS-HNFS), concentration credential. Meeting the ongoing professional development requirements to maintain the CFCS credentials assures potential employers, clients, and the general public that the CFCS professional has a commitment to expanding competence and expertise through ongoing participation in professional development activities.

For those Certified in Family and Consumer Sciences, an official Certificate of Completion has been placed in the Annual Conference packet you received at registration. This form is necessary to verify professional development units (PDUs). All CFCS professionals can earn up to 29.25 PDUs through attendance at the Annual Conference, including participation in approved educational excursions. PDUs may be earned by attending sessions and viewing exhibits. PDUs are also earned by attending certain meal functions that include a scheduled speaker (see individual descriptions and PDU notations in the program). Remember to document your PDUs on the Certificate of Completion included in your Annual Conference packet!

Continuing Education Unit (CEU) Credit for Certified Family Life Educators
Some AAFCS Annual Conference sessions are approved for CEU credit for the Certified Family Life Educator program through the National Council on Family Relations (NCFR). If you are a Certified Family Life Educator and would like to earn CEU credit, please come to the AAFCS Registration Desk for a list of approved sessions and a certificate.

Registration
The AAFCS Registration Desk is located in the Clinch Concourse on the Third Level of the Knoxville Convention Center. Those who have pre-registered should present their advance registration confirmation when picking up registration materials. Registration materials may only be picked up by the individual who is registered for the conference.

Registration Hours of Operation:
Tuesday: 2:00pm-5:00pm
Wednesday: 7:00am-12:00noon and 1:30pm-6:00pm
Thursday: 7:00am-12:00noon and 1:30pm-7:00pm
Friday: 7:00am-12:00noon and 1:30pm-6:00pm
Saturday: 7:00am-12:00noon and 1:30pm-3:00pm

Registration List
An alphabetical list of all attendees registered for the AAFCS Annual Conference is available for your review at the AAFCS Registration Desk.

2009 Senate
Saturday, June 27; 2:00pm-4:00pm (credentialing begins at 1:00pm)
Only certified senators and members of the board of directors are to be admitted to the reserved seating section. The Senate unreserved seating area is open to all AAFCS members and other Annual Conference registrants.

Please note: Senate ribbons will be given during Senate credentialing beginning at 1:00pm.

Smoking
Both hotels have one smoking floor.

Survey
Your feedback about your AAFCS Annual Conference & Expo experience is very important to AAFCS. The information we receive helps us in planning future conferences to better meet your needs. On July 1, AAFCS will post a link to the 100th Annual Conference & Expo online survey on the AAFCS home page (www.aafcs.org). You will have two weeks to complete the survey. In order to help you complete the survey as accurately as possible, we have provided some topics for you to consider during the Annual Conference & Expo:

- Annual Conference theme and educational objectives
- Reasons for attending the Annual Conference & Expo
- Overall value of the Annual Conference and sessions
- Quality and relevance of the keynote speakers
- Value of the educational excursions
- Open hours and value of the Expo
- Usefulness of the onsite program book
- Suggestions for future conferences
- Reasons why you would attend next year’s conference

We look forward to receiving your feedback in the online survey.
EDUCATIONAL EXCURSIONS

Enhance your Annual Conference experience by participating in one of seven informative and fun educational excursions coordinated by the Tennessee Association of Family & Consumer Sciences. All tours include lunch and last the entire day, approximately 8:00am - 5:00pm. Tour buses will depart from the Hilton Knoxville beginning at 8:00am on the 24th.

June 24, 2009

Walking Tour of Knoxville
(Full Day, 6 PDUs, $45)
Put on your sneakers and join us for a walk through historic downtown Knoxville. You will tour the beautiful Tennessee Theatre (www.tennesseetheatre.com), the Official State Theater of Tennessee, which underwent a $25.5 million renovation in 2005. “The Tennessee” has hosted such performers as Helen Hayes, the Glen Miller Orchestra, Bill Cosby, and B.B. King. The theatre opened in 1928 with a Spanish-Moorish décor and included a Mighty Wurlitzer organ, which was recently restored to its original splendor. You will be treated to an organ concert during your tour. We will also visit the Bijou Theater (www.knoxbijou.com), which opened in 1909 in the Lamar House, a hotel and tavern built in 1817. The first performance was Little Johnny Jones, starring George M. Cohan. The theater has been host to such performers as the Marx Brothers, Dizzy Gillespie, Wynton Marsalis, and Phyllis Diller. After lunch at Club LeConte, you will stroll over to the Blount Mansion (www.bloumtmansion.org), the territorial capitol of the “US South of the Ohio River.” Construction began in 1792 to provide a home to William Blount and his family, his law office, and the territorial capitol. The final stop on our tour is the East Tennessee Historical Society (www.east-tennessee-history.org). The society began in 1834 to interpret East Tennessee History and to preserve artifacts of this unique region.

Secret City Excursion
(Full Day, 6 PDUs, $75)
Tour the city that was part of the Manhattan Project during World War II. You will see the Graphite Reactor to learn how plutonium was produced from uranium during World War II and the new Spallation Neutron Source, the world’s most intense pulsed accelerator-based neutron source. The morning will be devoted to the American Museum of Science and Energy (www.AMSE.org), which is a “hands on” museum that teaches about energy and how it affects our lives. Lunch will be at Big Ed’s Pizza, an Oak Ridge landmark. In addition to delicious pizza, you will receive a Big Ed’s t-shirt, which can be seen on the streets in countries around the world. Be sure you have identification as well as your Annual Conference name badge as some of the sites are for US citizens only!

Social Issues Tour
(Full Day, 5 PDUs, $75)
You will visit the Highlander Center (www.highlandercenter.org) in New Market, which strives to present programs designed to build strong and successful social-change activism. When it was founded in 1932, the Center wanted to build a strong labor movement in the South. After lunch at the Highlander Center, you will visit Alex Haley’s Farm (www.haleyfarm.org), now the conference and training center for the Children’s Defense Fund (www.childrensdefense.org), which seeks to provide strong advocacy for children. The final stop on the tour is a trip to the Green McAdoo School and Museum to learn about the first integrated public high school in the South. You will have an opportunity to speak to one of the people involved in community events during this turbulent time.

Culinary Teaching Facilities in East Tennessee
(Full Day, 6 PDUs, $75)
You will travel to Carson Newman College (www.cn.edu) in Jefferson City to tour the new Blye-Poteat Hall and the Child Development Lab. You will see the new family and consumer sciences teaching facilities, which include a demonstration food preparation lab with state-of-the-art appliances donated by BSH Home Appliances. From Jefferson City, you will travel to Sevierville in the foothills of the Great Smoky Mountains to see the new facilities of the Culinary Arts Program at Walter’s State Community College (www.ws.edu). The culinary students will prepare our lunch to show off their culinary talents. After our lunch, we will return to Knoxville to visit the Knox Area Rescue Ministries’ (www.karm.org) Abundant Life Kitchen, a program to teach culinary skills to the unemployed and the homeless. UT Culinary Institute is the last stop on our tour. Nationally renowned Chef John Antun has developed a culinary program designed to help individuals qualify for positions in food facilities in the community.

Tour of the Smokies (Full Day, 6 PDUs, $75)
You will visit the Arrowmont School of Arts and Crafts (www.arrowmont.org), a nationally renowned center of contemporary arts and crafts education, to gain an appreciation of the fine crafts available in the area, including ceramics, fibers, metals/jewelry, painting, drawing, photography, warm glass, woodturning, woodworking, sculpture, and book and paper arts. A trip to the Smoky Mountains would not be complete without stopping at the Sugarlands Visitor’s Center followed by a scenic tour of the Mountains. After a drive highlighting the beautiful vistas of the Smokies, you will have lunch at Miss Lily’s Barn (www.lily-barn.com) in Townsend, located on the other side of the mountains. A trip to the Smoky Mountains Heritage Center (www.gsmheritagecenter.org) completes the tour of the area surrounding the most visited National Park in the country.

Tennessee History Tour (Full Day, 5 PDUs, $75)
Your bus will take you to Northeast Tennessee to visit the home and tailor shop of Andrew Johnson, 17th president of the United States (www.nps.gov/anjo). Then we will have lunch at the recently restored General Morgan Inn (www.generalmorganinn.com), which was built in 1884 and is a member of the National Trust of Historic Hotels in America. After lunch, you will travel to Jonesborough, Tennessee’s oldest town for an afternoon of storytelling (www.storytellingcenter.org) and shopping (www.jonesboroughtn.org) at the many craft stores that line the streets.

Industrial and Community Sustainability Tour (Full Day, 3 PDUs, $60)
You will have the opportunity to visit Bush Brothers’ new plant (www.BushBeans.com) in historic Dandridge, the second oldest town in Tennessee. After our tour of the Bush Brothers’ plant, you will be served a delicious regional barbecue lunch at Smoky’s Steak and BBQ (www.smokyssteakandbbq.com). This local favorite restaurant is located in the completely remodeled old Gass General Store Building, built in 1826. After lunch, you will be given the opportunity to wander among the shops in Dandridge before getting on the bus. On the way back to Knoxville, you will take the scenic route to see Douglas Dam, one of the many dams in the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) System.

The Museum of Appalachia
Sponsored by the International Federation for Home Economics (IFHE-US)
6:00pm (bus will leave hotel at 5:15pm)
(Evening Tour, $50.00) After a short drive from the hotel, we will visit a Smithsonian Affiliate that was opened in the late 1960s by John Rice Irwin whose grandparents were descendants of early East Tennessee pioneers. He has sought to present a “living” picture of early Appalachian life, making the cabins appear as if the family has just strolled down to the spring to fetch the day’s supply of water. This extensive farm-village complex encompasses dozens of historic log structures with period furnishings. Display buildings, including family cabins, a one-room schoolhouse, log chapel, sawmill, and several barns, cribs, smokehouses, outhouses, and other structures typical of mountain homesteads, contain tens of thousands of authentic Appalachian artifacts, gardens surrounded by split rail fences, and a variety of farm animals in a traditional farm setting. Of particular interest is the Appalachian Hall of Fame, paying tribute to both the famous and the ordinary men, women, and children of Appalachia. After the self-guided tour we will enjoy a traditional Appalachian supper, featuring beans, potatoes, cornbread, and cobbler. This event will also include traditional southern folklore as told by native Tennessean storyteller Elizabeth Rose. A bus will be provided from the hotel to the museum for an additional charge of $12.00.

Recalling Our Calling: Record Your Remarkable FCS Memories
AAFCS members, especially long-time members, have been invited to record special recollections of remarkable events in their professional FCS careers. After editing, the resulting DVD will be a permanent recording of significant events in the recent history of our profession and Association. If you have important FCS stories to share, please check the appointment board for availability and come by during one of the five designated times during the conference.

GREEN TIPS
Use small appliances (slow cooker, toaster oven, solar oven, etc.) rather than the range or oven. For a meal that requires one hour to cook in an electric oven (which uses 2.7 pounds of CO₂), a crockpot uses 0.9 pounds of CO₂ for seven hours, a toaster oven takes 1.3 pounds of CO₂ for 50 minutes, and a microwave only 0.5 pounds of CO₂ for 15 minutes of cooking. Of course, a solar cooker requires no (0.0) CO₂!

GREEN TIPS

Eat grain-, fruit-, vegetable-, or legume-based and meat-free meals a few more times each week (or each day). “If you grow corn and eat it, you expend 2.2 calories of energy to yield 1 calorie of protein. If you process that corn, feed it to a steer, and . . . account for the other needs (transport, machinery, etc.), you’re responsible for 40 calories of energy to get that same 1 calorie of protein.”

Turn off the lights and reduce direct lighting energy use by 45%. Stop using heat-producing halogen lamps (they can be fire hazards). Install occupancy or motion sensors on outdoor lights.

Prepare boxed lunches at home using washable, reusable containers.

Initiate a walking school bus program (or bicycle train program) in your area to promote child-safe, environment friendly, and neighborhood friendly ways to get children to nearby schools.

EDUCATIONAL SESSIONS – BLOCK #1

Ethic of Care: A Pathway to Pro-Environmental Consumer Choices
The ethic of care is linked to pro-environmental consumer behaviors. Family and consumer sciences education provides an ideal pathway for consumers to develop decision-making skills based on ethical reasoning. In this interactive workshop, a model for ethical reasoning, developed by Roubanis, Garner, and Purcell (2008), is presented as a tool for encouraging ethical decision-making that includes the ethic of care. Participants will use deliberation and metacognition to recognize the modalities of reasoning reflected in their own decision-making and consumer behaviors. (1 PDU)

Presenters: Jody L. Roubanis, CFCS, Bonnie J. Rader, Sammie G. Garner, CFCS, and Rosa S. Purcell, CFCS

Creating a Sustainable Energy Management Program
As FCS professionals, we can provide leadership for collaborative efforts that benefit families and communities. An FCS faculty team took this leadership role and received a grant from Entergy, Inc., for the purpose of addressing the sustainability of household energy management. The resulting program was geared toward low-cost and no-cost strategies families could incorporate into their apparel selection and care, food selection and preparation, lighting options, weatherization methods, and appliance usage that decreased energy usage without reducing comfort. This session will provide suggestions for community collaboration, recommend strategies for replicating the program, and model the training sessions that were developed. And, we’ll have door prizes! (1 PDU)

Presenters: Paula J. Tripp, CFCS, Laura K. Burleson, Claudia Sealey Potts, and Janis H. White, CFCS
Planning & Program

H – Knoxville Hilton, KCC – Knoxville Convention Center

Time: 8:00am - 9:00am | Location: 200 E (KCC)

Paying Tribute to the Forgotten Founders of FCS: Myths and Realities

The Centennial Celebration of AAFCS is a time to honor early leaders who created a new discipline and profession. Although Ellen Swallow Richards is honored as founder of the American Association of Family & Consumer Sciences, the discipline and profession evolved over many years. This tribute to wise and courageous early leaders who are our “forgotten founders” features the contributions of Catharine Beecher, Nellie Kedzie Jones, Melville Dewey, Marion Talbot, Benjamin Andrews, C.F. Langworthy, and others during the founding of a new discipline and profession. By understanding our past, we gain inspiration and wisdom for our future. (1 PDU)

Presenters: Nina Collins, CFCS, Carol E. Kellett, and Sharon Y. Nickols

Time: 8:00am - 9:00am | Location: 300 D (KCC)

Fashion Counterfeit: A Sustainability Issue

The unprecedented growth of counterfeit goods has become an economic sustainability issue. Widespread counterfeiting of fashion as a global concern places business and economic interests in jeopardy. Growing numbers of consumers, driven by their desire for prestige fashion items, are not aware of the consequences of purchasing counterfeits and how their behavior contributes to excessive consumption. Educators will have a clearer understanding of the counterfeit economy and how to engage audiences in education programming. Business and economic development professionals will learn strategies to educate business owners on the illegal consequences and economic impact of counterfeit products. (1 PDU)

Presenters: Wanda K. Cheek and Cynthia R. Easterling

Time: 8:00am - 9:00am | Location: 300 AB (KCC)

Celebrating Cultural Diversity in the FCS Classroom

The need for multicultural education has never been so critical, given the astounding number of multicultural and multilingual students in today’s classrooms. Learn about multicultural education and engage in activities and projects that demonstrate how multicultural education can be infused into your FCS classroom or other educational setting. Through hands-on activities, such as the multicultural umbrella, cultural greeting cards, and peer portraits, find out about strategies that promote cultural awareness and appreciation for other cultures. Supplies and materials will be provided, as well as information to use in your own classroom. (1 PDU)

Presenters: Barbara N. Allison and Marsha L. Rehm

Time: 8:00am - 9:30am | Location: Hiwassee (H)

Interactive Games: Preserving the Past and Promoting the Future of FCS

Educational games using Bingo and Quiz Bowl formats have been developed and tested by the New Mexico Affiliate at annual meetings. These unique, creative, and interactive strategies allow both professionals and pre-professionals to learn about the history, philosophy, and subject matter content of the FCS profession while networking. At this session, engage in energizing activities that will provide both learning and fun. The presenters will guide you in successful implementation of the games. Receive a CD of the games for use with your affiliates or universities. (1.5 PDUs)

Presenters: Linda S. Wells and Merrilyn N. Cummings, CFCS

Sustaining the Future of AAFCS Through WOW Development Activities
Join the AAFCS Centennial Development Committee in a lively, interactive session for fun and activity. Learn to think “outside the bottle” with ideas guaranteed to work in your FCS community. If you and your affiliate have struggled to enroll new members or maybe just need to re-energize your meetings, come share a great time with our team. Use our ideas and activities with your entire community to get them interested in our 100-year history and our legacy for the future, as well as garner support the Centennial Campaign.

Presenters: Joyce B. Miles, CFCS, Retired, and Kathy Norquist

Time: 10:00am - 11:30am | Location: 300 C (KCC)
Career Development Session—“I’ve graduated. Now what?”
If you are a student or new professional, learn where your FCS-related degree can take you. In this interactive session, we will discuss traditional career opportunities as well as some careers you may not have considered. Find out about opportunities for further degrees, and how to get there. (1.5 PDUs)
Presenter: Sarah F. Johnson

Time: 10:00am - 11:30am | Location: 200 A (KCC)
The Case Study of the FCS Department at California State University, Northridge
FCS faculty at California State University, Northridge will present their recent work on sustainability. At this session, learn about creating humane sustainability in building environments, making the transition to a sustainable clothing and textile future, the consumers’ responsibility in conserving and improving the environment, maintaining mental health in contemporary family environments, and assessing knowledge of healthy eating and nutrition for the health sustainability of the general population. (1.5 PDUs)

Who Will Lead Us? Cultivating a Professional Culture That Supports and Develops Emerging FCS Leaders

As the field of family and consumer sciences has evolved within an increasingly complex environment, a prominent theme has emerged that places emphasis on the importance of leadership in positioning and sustaining the profession. In this session, examine how FCS professionals are socialized to assume leadership in family and consumer sciences. This educational session will highlight the experiences and values that motivate professionals to actively assume leadership responsibilities and explore the meaning that leading holds for those who do accept the challenge. Discuss implications for cultivating a professional culture that supports leadership actualization. (1.5 PDUs)

Presenters: Denise G. Fisher, CFCS, and Yvonne S. Gentzler

“Going Green” in FCS Programs

The purpose of this presentation is to show how “going green in the 21st century” is vital to the FCS program. Find out about curriculum projects that incorporate sustainable materials and eco-friendly products. Discover how environmental sustainability can be a stand-alone lesson, unit, or course in one or more FCS content areas. Discuss methods of embedding real-world applications in interdisciplinary classes. Examples of sustainable practices, projects, and curriculum strategies will emphasize the importance of recycling, reusing, reconstructing, and redesigning post-consumer products. Plus, learn how recycling can be integrated into FCCLA and service-learning projects. (1.5 PDUs)

Presenters: Billie L. Perrin and M. Lynn Alkire

Sustaining Individuals, Families, Communities, and the FCS Profession in a “Flat” World

Are you prepared for the rapidly changing global society in which we live? Attend this session to gain insight into how globalization concepts presented in Thomas Friedman’s bestselling book, The World is Flat, are applicable and relevant to FCS professionals. Discuss how this “level playing field” has an impact on individuals, families, and communities. Learn how parents and educators can empower young people with the skills necessary to thrive in a “flat” world. By preparing professionals for the “flat” world, we can ensure the sustainability of the FCS profession in a dynamic, global environment. (1.5 PDUs)

Presenter: Kathleen Heiden

Principles of Voluntary Simplicity: How Revisiting the Past and Reducing in the Present Can Enhance a Sustainable Future

Finding alternatives to excessive consumption is as simple as revisiting the past. The principles of voluntary simplicity are rooted in the past; examining them with 21st-century-comforted vision illustrates attitudes and behaviors capable of sabotaging their successful adaptation. If we recognize potential failures and formulate a back-up plan when applying voluntary simplicity principles, it will help us achieve a sustainable future at the individual, family, and community levels. (1.5 PDUs)

Presenter: Pamela A. Murray, CFCS

Becoming an Accreditation Site Visit Team Leader

Prepare to take a next step and equip yourself to serve as an accreditation site visit team leader. This workshop is for experienced site visit team members who have an interest in analyzing the roles and responsibilities of a team leader. Strategies and protocols for effectively managing a site visit will be examined. Determine how to creatively coordinate the preparation of the site visit and the eventual report. (2 PDUs)

Career Clusters and Pre-Professional Assessments and Certifications: A Partnership for Sustaining the FCS Profession

Like other career and technical education programs, family and consumer sciences secondary programs are expected to use career clusters to organize middle and high school curricula through comprehensive programs of study. Programs of study should be connected to post-secondary education and to business and industry, as well as provide opportunities for documentation of technical skill attainment through third party assessments, certifications, or licensure. Discuss these expectations and how career clusters and the new AAFCS Pre-Professional Assessment and Certification (Pre-PAC) program form a partnership for creating programs of study that meet funding mandates and develop future professionals for the second century of FCS.

Sustaining Family and Consumer Sciences:
Globally and Locally
Family and consumer sciences professionals play a vital role in addressing issues of individual and family well-being and environmental sustainability, yet the profession itself faces challenges of sustainability. This panel of international leaders brings global and local perspectives to the discussion of what contributes to sustainable academic programs and opportunities for professional practice. The United Nations Millennium Development goals provide a framework for identifying the most critical issues for family sustainability in “developing” countries, but there are changes in the economies and environments of “developed” countries that also call for the expertise of family and consumer sciences professionals. With inspiration from the past and vision for the future, the panel illustrates the vitality of family and consumer sciences in the 21st century.

EDUCATIONAL SESSIONS – BLOCK #3

Time: 10:00am - 11:00am | Location: 300 B (KCC)
Ten Steps to Achieving Financial Independence in Later Life
Increasing life expectancy brings financial challenges, such as the cost of long-term care expenses, required withdrawals from tax-deferred retirement plans, and prudent spending and investing to insure that assets last a lifetime. This workshop will address the issue of sustaining one's lifestyle by becoming financially independent in later life. By definition, financial independence means not being dependent on anyone for one's financial needs and requires sufficient income and/or invested assets. Discuss ten specific financial planning strategies, as well as recommended action steps and available resources. (1 PDU)

Presenter: Barbara M. O’Neill, CFCS

Time: 10:00am - 11:00am | Location: 300 A (KCC)
Smart Strategies for “Going Green”
How “green” are you, and what does it mean to be “green” in today’s society? Whether it is at home, at work, or in the grocery store, there are many ways you can live a greener, richer life, and it is easier than you think. This session will address basic questions: Are we using more resources than we need? How do you “shop green”? How can we improve our home environment? Can we actually save money by “going green”? What are “green” investments? Plus, learn how individuals can come together to have a positive impact on a community’s environmental health. (1 PDU)

Tracing the Higher Education FCS Curriculum Through the Century (1908-2008)
Through 100 years of existence, FCS programs have grown and evolved in response to a changing society and thus the changing needs of the family. The last forty years of higher education programming have been characterized by increased specialization and reduced membership in AAFCS. The consequent identity crisis that is evident in a reduction of historically integrative courses, unit restructuring, and name differences has created uncertainty as to whether consensus exists concerning the body of knowledge in higher education programs. Review the past and assess the present state of the FCS higher education curriculum. (1 PDU)

The “ABCs” of Leadership: Accept the Challenge, Build the Skills, and Create a Legacy to Sustain the FCS Profession

Leadership is critical to the future of FCS in a rapidly changing society. What ought to be done to ensure that students and professionals are poised to assume future leadership roles? It’s as easy as A-B-C! FCS secondary and post-secondary educators are invited to accept the challenge of building the leadership skills of students and young professionals. At this session, learn about innovative models, programs, and teaching strategies for developing leadership skills and creating a leadership legacy. You will be empowered to embrace your role in creating future leaders to sustain the FCS profession in its next 100 years. (1 PDU)

Fifty Successful Ideas for Increasing Student Enrollment and Professional Connections

Increasing enrollments in FCS education classes and content specific areas, such as food science and nutrition, at the middle school, high school, and university levels is a challenge. And in the professional arena, there is a need to recruit, retain, and sustain middle and high school FCS education teachers and food science and nutrition professors. The Y generation has new criteria for how they wish to be recruited, retained, and sustained. At this session, find out about the successful plan used to sustain communication with students from Menomonie Middle School through the professional level. (1 PDU)

“Sustaining the Future of FCS Through the Millennials”
As we celebrate the AAFCS Centennial, it is important to examine the generations of the founders, current members, and future members. Generational theory can provide insight into differences among members in AAFCS and offer ways to attract students. How can AAFCS be responsive to the needs and interests of the millennials, thus ensuring our future? Learn strategies for helping generations work together and examine ways in which the millennials have the ability, confidence, and desire to change the world. (0.75 PDUs)

Undergraduate Student Service-learning Project—Addressing the Educational Needs of Refugee Families in Rural Communities
This project demonstrates a community partnership used to address the educational needs of newly settled refugee families in a rural mid-western community. Hear about the program outcomes through students’ digital stories, which were completed during a service-learning course for this project. Areas of focus include access to local resources, computer literacy, work skills, financial literacy, sustainable practices, parenting, nutrition/wellness, and communication in the English language. The partnership involved the local Rotary Club; the FCS, English, and families Extension programs at a land-grant institution; a local refugee women’s group; a faith-based institution; and a local daily newspaper. Marriage and Family Conversation: Family Struggles in Economically Challenging Times

In this interactive session, we will use the World Café model to stimulate the sharing of concerns, information, and insights surrounding current economic pressures as they relate to marriage and family life. The World Café model uses a series of questions to “… link and build on each other as people move between groups, cross-pollinate ideas, and discover new insights into the questions or issues...the World Café can evoke and make visible the collective intelligence of any group, thus increasing people’s capacity for effective action in pursuit of common aims.” (1.5 PDUs)

OPEN FORUM—Discussion of AAFCS’ Strategic Positioning for our Second Century

Join the AAFCS Board of Directors to learn about the outcomes of “Transforming AAFCS: New Era of Action” and how this transformation has strategically positioned AAFCS for a new century of providing leadership and support to FCS professionals and students. From streamlined bylaws to the organic community membership structure, from developing pre-professional assessments/certifications to redesigning our awards program, AAFCS is well positioned to fulfill its updated mission.

Engage in a dialogue on new initiatives designed to further establish AAFCS as the “go to” organization for professional development in family and consumer sciences. Ellen Swallow Richards would be proud of where we are today, and you will like hearing where we are headed tomorrow.

What’s in Store for the Next One Hundred Years of AAFCS and FCS?
Societal trends, issues, and worldwide happenings have had an impact on AHEA/AAFCS and the profession in our first 100 years. While we may not be able to accurately predict the impact of societal trends, issues, and happenings in the future, we can be responsible for considering the possibilities that scientists and writers state are probable in the future. During this session, discuss summary review statements from four resources with different perspectives of the future. You will be encouraged to respond to a suggested list of possible changes that might affect AAFCS and the profession in the next 25, 50, and 100 years. (1 PDU)

Teaching Undergraduate Students About Voluntary Simplicity
Voluntary simplicity means doing more or living better with less. A growing number of people are realizing that happiness and fulfillment do not lie in having more money or new and bigger things. Are the material things we spend our time working to purchase adding to our quality of life?
The traditional college student today often has a difficult time distinguishing between needs and wants. Students often go to college without understanding finances and learn too late the consequences of making poor financial decisions. Discuss how voluntary simplicity can be built into students’ everyday lives. (1 PDU)

Protecting Future Generations
Consumers are exposed to a tsunami of information on sustainability but may be unaware of its impact on the cleaning products industry. Even in today’s turbulent economic and social environment, product innovations continue to protect future generations. This keynote presentation will involve industry experts and the expertise of more than 100 companies. Family and consumer sciences professionals can look forward to industry insights on what consumers might see in future product performance, convenience, packaging, and labels. And how the industry and the profession can work in harmony to sustain the future!

Reflections on African-American Contributions to Family and Consumer Sciences: Looking Back and Moving Forward
In this session, learn about the history of the Coalition, including the reasons for its existence and progress made toward its original goals. Understand the role Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCU) have played in preparing African Americans for the family and consumer sciences profession, honor achievements of African Americans in our profession, and recognize the challenges facing our profession, academic programs in higher education, and the recruitment of African Americans to the FCS profession. Putting the AAFCS Code of Ethics Into Practice

Review the results of an ethics survey, the AAFCS Code of Ethics, and a variety of case studies from the last conference. Discuss how to best use the code when teaching and share your comments about how the code fits with the case studies. Will we be able to agree on the ethical dilemmas from each case study and what standards from the AAFCS Code of Ethics apply? (1.5 PDUs)

Presenters: Marie L. Olson-Badeau and Jay Kandiah

Implementing Sustainable Living Education in FCS Programs—Public Policy Implications

Sustainable living involves making informed choices while looking at the social, economic, and environmental impact of possible changes. This forum, sponsored by the AAFCS Public Policy Committee, will include a panel of presenters who will share how FCS professionals in various areas of practice can use the sustainability triangle to evaluate public policy implications when developing programs. (1.5 PDUs)

Presenter: Luann K. Boyer, CFCS

Annual Conference Committee Meeting

50-Year Member Welcome Breakfast—By invitation only

To celebrate their years of commitment to the Association, AAFCS members with 50 or more years of membership have been invited to attend this exclusive event.

Preparing an Accreditation Self-Study Report

With the redesign of the standards and criteria, this workshop offers an opportunity to become more familiar with the standards and criteria, as well as the process and timelines. Accreditation veterans will share information regarding resources and strategies that support this important stage of the process. The session is for administrators of units involved in preparing a self-study report and others who may be providing leadership for the work.

Individuals considering serving on a site visit team will find this learning experience of value. (3 PDUs)

Presenters: Fran E. Andrews, CFCS, Sue Byrd, CFCS, Valerie L. Colyard, CFCS, Janet F. Pope, Sue Stanley, and Carol L. Anderson, CFCS

Community of ESAE Curriculum Showcase (1 PDU)

Coordinated by the Community of ESAE

Gather creative ideas from AAFCS Teachers of the Year and other presenters for your K-adult FCS programs. Teacher of the Year notebooks will be on display. Purchase the ESAE Best Practices CD and bid on silent auction items to help support ESAE projects.

2009 Teachers of the Year

National and Wisconsin Teacher of the Year

Susan Turgeson, CFCS, Menomonie High School

Food Science

The course was implemented to address the need to prepare students in the field of science, increase the number of females studying in the STEM fields, identify the need for food science professionals, and integrate core academics with the FCS curriculum. Collaboration with the agriscience and science departments, local industry, and post-secondary educators has provided materials and experiences to enrich student learning. Integration of technology (i.e., websites, video, and Moodle) has been utilized to achieve program goals.

Teacher of the Year Merit Finalist and Alabama Teacher of the Year

Rheta F. Hughey, CFCS, Wenonah High School

Beyond the Classroom

“Beyond the Classroom” focuses on preparing students for their role as successful working citizens. This goal is met by utilizing FCCLA to connect the cooperative education program to the community. FCCLA becomes the driving force to extend the program beyond the classroom to meet the challenges and needs of today’s youth and families.

Teacher of the Year Merit Finalist and South Dakota Teacher of the Year
Mary Jo Parker, CFCS, Andes Central Junior/Senior High School

Preparing for the Real World: The Senior Experience
“The Senior Experience” allows students to consolidate and showcase what they learned during their high school years through a meaningful and relevant project. It is their opportunity to connect with the world outside of school and demonstrate they have the skills to go on to further education and/or enter the workforce. The program helps students see the connections between what they are learning now and how it applies to their future.

New Jersey Teacher of the Year
Katherine Acocella, CFCS, Tenafly High School

The Taste of Tenafly
Throughout my career, I have tried to bring the courses of family and consumer sciences to the forefront. I have initiated, designed, and executed many courses to keep the material current with the communities in which I have worked. Even though I am not highlighting any one course, I have reinvented myself to adapt to my audience and have made an impact on students and the community through public relations. “PR” is key. That is my mantra!

Connecticut Teacher of the Year
Belle Garafola, CFCS-HNFS, Pomperaug High School

The Hungry Panther Café
“The Hungry Panther Café” is a student-run, student-planned, after-school program, which provides a place for students who stay for sports, clubs, or tutoring to meet and have nutritious snacks and food.

Pennsylvania Teacher of the Year
Judy A. Getz, Hempfield High School

The Child Development Laboratory Preschool Program
This program provides high school students the opportunity to observe, guide, teach, and interact with preschoolers. These experiences offer students a model from which to learn and discuss real-life concepts related to child development, and pursue careers in teaching or childcare. It is the goal of our program to provide opportunities for students to develop skills in behavior management, identify developmental milestones, and practice negotiation, cooperation, and leadership through teamwork.

Virginia Teacher of the Year
Roxie V. Godfrey, Mount Vernon High School

Celebrating My Heritage
The “Celebrating My Heritage” project guides students in understanding their similarities, differences, and cultural diversity by investigating their ethnic heritage. Students build online family trees using web-based databases and by gathering information through interviews, email, and internet research. By collecting photographs, documents, and artifacts, students are able to recognize their family and cultural identity. Students learn about each other by sharing their heritage, cultural research, and a family recipe.

New Mexico Teacher of the Year
Linda K. Hansen, Madison Middle School

Family and Consumer Sciences FACS I Intro, FACS II Foods (Coffee Shop), and EXFACS
Keeping students actively engaged in learning is the focus of my family and consumer sciences program. Issues include high failure rate, lack of literacy, and students’ lack of preparation for the labor force. To reach state goals, students prepare a personal resume, cooperatively operate breakfast cafes, demonstrate skills needed for sanitary food service, demonstrate proper parenting using computer babies, problem solve and think critically through home design and sewing projects, and demonstrate good nutrition in food selection.

Minnesota Teacher of the Year
Jane Hall Hinrichsen, CFCS, North High School

Commercial Cooking and Baking, Bridging the City and School
The Professional Culinary Training program teaches content and helps students learn commitment, teamwork, and how to gain a more positive attitude. The greatest moments are when students tell me that they went home and prepared something they made in class for their family. I am also very proud when they tell me they are going to apply to a culinary school; many are the first person in their families to even consider going to a post-secondary school.

Come See What We’re All About!
The Culinary Arts program incorporated into current Foods & Wellness and Culinary Skills classes have helped students establish relationships with businesses, restaurants, and post-secondary institutions, raising awareness of the variety of careers in food science, culinology, and hospitality management. Students compete in building, district, regional, state and national competitions and receive certification through the Pro-Start/ServSafe industry standard curriculum. FCCLA and Skills USA student clubs provide leadership opportunities, which enhance students’ success in college and future careers.

Montana Teacher of the Year
Kimberli H. McCullough, Sweet Grass County High School
Attitude for Making Healthy Choices: Sweet Grass County High School HIV/AIDS Mentoring Program
The program, “Attitude for Making Healthy Choices,” was created eight years ago as an HIV/AIDS Peer Mentoring program at Sweet Grass County High School. The successful program allows students to develop activities for and instruct grades seven through twelve on issues related to HIV/AIDS, harassment, discrimination, taking ownership, and making healthy choices. The program has been presented on World AIDS Day and at teacher in-service trainings, community meetings, and youth group meetings.

Iowa Teacher of the Year
Teresa Nennig, Independence Community Schools
Real Living for the 21st Century
With more focus on college preparatory classes, standardized testing, and new state graduation requirements, the enrollment in FCS classes that teach critical everyday living skills was declining, while the need for these skills was rising. To address this, I developed a one-term course, “Real Living,” which is a graduation requirement for seniors that covers financial and relationship skills. Now 100-120 students per year experience ways to apply these needed skills to their lives.

Ohio Teacher of the Year
Vandita Prasad, Byrnedale Middle School
FCS Program and Quilting Project Fights Bullying
The primary focus of this program is to support the Olweus Bullying Prevention program and help with the school-wide initiative to end bullying. By incorporating anti-bullying projects within the FCS program and FCCLA activities, this program helps students gain awareness about bullying and ways to deal with it. One major FCCLA project, the anti-bullying quilt (that took two years), was instrumental in supporting the Byrnedale Bullying Prevention program and providing recognition to family and consumer sciences.

Texas Teacher of the Year
Janet Rodriguez, Southwest High School
Apparel “Out of the Box”
The program is designed to provide students with academic principles for the management of clothing, society, and the fashion world. Students look at how today’s industry influences home and clothing designs and learn skills to contribute to and evaluate this creative world.

OTHER PARTICIPANTS
Taylor Barczyk, Lindsay Fortier, Ashley Stone, and Lauren White, Central Michigan University
Above the Influence: Mean Girls
This curriculum provides FCS educators with the opportunity to create a mentorship between high school and middle school girls. The students facilitate self-exploration and community building exercises that provide skills for surviving/eliminating the mean-girl syndrome.

Janis P. Meek, CFCS, State Consultant, FACS Education, North Carolina Department of Public Instruction
National FCS Standards—Branding FCS Education
Learn more about resources now available to communicate the vital role of family and consumer sciences education and FCS National Standards in National Career Clusters and 21st Century Skills.

Healthy Homes for Healthy Families
This national consumer education program focuses on improving indoor air quality in homes. It covers moisture and biologicals, household products, radon, asbestos, lead, tobacco smoke, carbon monoxide, formaldehyde, asthma, and building science concepts. The goal is to protect public health by reducing risks associated with indoor air contamination.

Kelli Y. White, Student, Central Michigan University

Diversity Through Literature
Because diversity is such an important part of our lives, it is necessary that we teach our students how to be tolerant and accepting of people who are different from them. This curriculum integrates language arts with family and consumer sciences to help students recognize diversity in both familiar and unique areas of their community.

Exhibitor Learning Lab (FDA Center for Food Safety and Applied Nutrition) - Capture Students’ Interest With Food Science
What captures the interest of students? Food! A proven motivator, interest in food can be used to engage students in inquiry-based science. Never before has food science received the public attention it’s receiving now—from scientists and public health officials to lawmakers and the media. Come see how you can easily incorporate food science into any type of foods classes or curriculum and also reach across the curriculum to math, science, English, and social studies while exposing your students to interesting careers in family and consumer sciences.

Sustaining the Future of FCS through National Standards, Assessment, and Certifications
FCS program sustainability for the future is enhanced by National Standards and the Pre-Professional Assessment and Certification (Pre-PAC) program. These provide direction and data for FCS program planning and improvement, documentation of student achievement, student and program recognition, and communication among local and state programs. Standards-based “gold-standard” third-party assessments facilitate student employability and articulation between secondary and higher education programs. The case will be made for the benefits to students, teachers, and FCS programs when a strong accountability/program improvement model is implemented. Hear from representatives of several

Healing and Dealing—Sustaining Yourself in Order to Help Others

In order to sustain the profession, FCS professionals must first sustain themselves. Dealing with a myriad of issues in a person’s individual and family life could result in feelings of guilt, frustration, failure, and even embarrassment because that person is able to help others but may have difficulty dealing with his or her own situations. Hear from colleagues about their experiences, feelings, and ways they used their family and consumer sciences skills and expertise to develop strategies to deal with their personal and family issues. Using Collaborative Strategies From the Past Century to Sustain FCS
Over the years, family and consumer sciences has undergone a metamorphosis that has greatly influenced the ways professionals within the field integrate their expertise. This has helped to sustain FCS over the past century. Using various research and educational tools, learn how to continue this effort. Understand how experts have successfully collaborated to advance the profession. To synthesize the different practical knowledge of those under the FCS umbrella, participate in discussions and hands-on activities with other FCS professionals. The Conscious Consumer: Paying It Forward
Overconsumption in the U.S. has resulted in monumental consumer debt and a detrimental impact on the environment. Consequences of today’s consumption will extend far beyond the financial well-being of families today. Consciously consuming now and for the future can have an immediate impact on a family’s financial well-being and contribute to creating a sustainable environment for the future. The conscious consumer focuses on values and priorities at the individual and global level. Paying it forward is the natural result of a conscious consumer who believes that the ability for future families to thrive is in direct alignment with actions of the present. (1.5 PDUs)

Developing Critical Ethical-Reasoning Skills in Pre-Professionals
College students reside in a society where unethical behaviors are commonplace. It is no surprise that 75% of college students report that they have cheated at least once. Such cheating is troubling given that a deep sense of commitment to ethical standards is the foundation of professional practice. Codes of ethics take students a step beyond academic integrity in looking at ethical problems, but do not equip them with enough knowledge to successfully navigate their way through complex and confusing situations. Gain knowledge about the concepts and instructional methods needed to develop ethical-reasoning skills in pre-professionals. (1.5 PDUs)

Generational Perspectives on Solutions to Today’s FCS Challenges
After learning more about generational changes in family life, interact with a panel consisting of one student and family relations and human development professionals who represent three generations. The panel presentation will focus on current challenges of the profession within a historical context. The talents and perspectives of multiple generations will add depth and dimension to our approach to finding solutions to today’s challenges. You’ll be encouraged to ask questions and share comments, creating synergy and a shared vision for the second century of the FCS profession. (1.5 PDUs)
Presenters: Ruth Ann Ball, CFCS, Pamela A. Schulze, and Margaret Torrie, CFCS

Time: 4:00pm - 5:30pm  | Location: Cherokee Salon ABC (H)
Centennial Reunion Reception
Sponsored by the Higher Education Unit and Board on Human Sciences
The following groups are hosting a table to help you reunite with former colleagues, students, and alumni. Stop by your school’s table and visit with administrators, students, and friends. Students, take this chance to investigate possible graduate programs and explore opportunities in your chosen area of study. Open to all Annual Conference attendees.
Participating Groups:
Ball State University  |  University of Georgia
Eastern Kentucky University  |  University of Kentucky
Florida State University  |  University of Tennessee
Iowa State University  |  University of Wisconsin-Madison
Kansas State University  |  University of Wisconsin-Stout
Purdue University  |  Youngstown State University
University of Arkansas  |  Board on Human Sciences
University of Connecticut  |  Project Identify & Recognize

Time: 6:00pm - 9:30pm  | Location: Ballroom A-G (KCC)
(6:00 – 7:00pm in Concourse, doors open at 7:00pm)
CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION:
LIGHT FOR A NEW CENTURY
Brought to you by the Tennessee Local Arrangements Committee
Celebrate our 100-year history, affirm our current relevance, and envision our professional future as we gather for our Centennial Celebration. Come early to sample light refreshments, festive live music, historical images from our past, and a photography station where you can have a commemorative Centennial souvenir photo taken ($10.00). Enjoy dessert and coffee, mingle with friends, and make new acquaintances. Hear encouraging words from our new president. Then envision the future through the eyes of Tennessee student members via a dynamic multimedia presentation. We will finish the party with something special—you won’t want to miss it. And, don’t forget your Centennial Commemorative piece as you leave. All of this is included with full and Saturday-only conference registrations, so dress up and join the party!

GREEN TIPS
Use a laptop instead of a desktop computer (this will cut three-quarters off of electrical use). Turn off the laptop at the end of the day.

Drink tap water instead of purchasing bottled water. Fill a reusable bottle with tap water rather than purchasing bottled water.

Walk or ride a bicycle rather than choosing to drive. Save fuel, save money, have fun, increase Vitamin D exposure (on sunny days), and promote heart health (think aerobics rather than strolling).

Shop in bulk rather than purchasing individually wrapped servings.

GREENTIPS

Wash laundry in cold water and save 80 percent on energy and an estimated $60 a year. Better yet, hang clothes out to dry and save 700 pounds of CO₂ a year.

Wrap the water heater in an insulation blanket and save 1,000 pounds of CO₂ a year. Insulate hot water pipes.

Turn off the lights and reduce direct lighting energy use by 45%. Stop using heat-producing halogen lamps (they can be fire hazards). Install occupancy or motion sensors on outdoor lights.

GREEN TIPS
Become a water miser. Water lawns before 8am (or may have a loss of 30% of water to evaporation), curtail aesthetic water use, turn off the water to shampoo (save 50 gal. a week) or brush teeth (4 gal. per minute), fix leaking faucets or hoses (170 gal. per day), run the washer and dishwasher only when full (and save 100 gal. a month).

Enhance Your Career Opportunities and Stay Current. Become Certified in Family and Consumer Sciences!

What Certified in Family & Consumer Sciences (CFCS) certifications can you earn?
When you pass one or more of the family and consumer sciences assessments, you can earn one or more of the corresponding certifications:

- CFCS: Certified in Family and Consumer Sciences
- CFCS-HDFS: Certified in Human Development and Family Studies
- CFCS-HNFS: Certified in Hospitality, Nutrition, and Food Science

Where can I find more information?

- Visit www.aafcs.org/certification.
- Email certification@aafcs.org.
- Come to “Becoming Certified in Family and Consumer Sciences (CFCS): Why It’s Important and How to Obtain It,” on Friday, June 26, 2:00pm – 3:00pm, at the AAFCS Annual Conference.
GEICO and Forrest T. Jones & Co. have teamed up to offer a special discount on car insurance.

Visit geico.com for your FREE, no-obligation rate quote and be sure to select AAFCS when asked for your affiliation. New customers save an average of $500 when they switch.

GEICO offers you:
- Outstanding, round-the-clock service online or on the phone, even on holidays and weekends!
- Fast, fair claim handling.
- Money-saving discounts.

GEICO can also help you with homeowner’s and renter’s insurance.

To find out how much you could save, visit geico.com or call 1-800-368-2734 today.
