You are all invited to build impactful collaborations.

Join us at our Wyoming & Colorado Associations of Family & Consumer Sciences conference November 6-7, Laramie County Community College, Cheyenne, WY

Earlier Bird registration price increases after October 22nd.
Hotel conference room block also ends October 22nd.

The theme is Collaborating to Strengthen Us as a Preventative Force for Lifelong Wellbeing

Instead of responding to consequences and symptoms of problems, the speakers will stress knowledge and skills needed to identify causal problems impacting individuals, families, communities, and society as a whole when many experience the same problems. Together we will identify meaningful partnerships and brainstorm strategies.

The conference will provide opportunities for professionals, students, and the public from diverse professions, agencies, and community organizations to

- understand diverse experiences to better address causal problems such as, but not limited to, chronic diseases, financial insecurity, mental health problems, and to increase sustainability,
- network and build interdisciplinary collaborative partnerships
- participate in reflective and strategic discussions
- work together to strengthen our impact in preventing quality-of-life problems
- learn how to become advocates for change.

Two full days of sessions, collaborative discussion, and opportunity to earn professional development credits:

- WY Dept. of Ed-8 Prof. Teach. Standards Bd-CTE Focused Professional Dev Pts,
- AAFCS certifications-12 PDUs for the Certified FCS credential & 1.5 for the Certified Nutrition & Wellness Educator Certification,
- CSU will award 1 graduate credit for 2-day attendance & assignments for $65.
- UW School of Teacher Education-Center for CTE will offer 1 graduate credit for 2-day attendance & assignments for $60.
