Tenured/Tenure Track Faculty Positions in Nursing and Health Innovation (Assistant, Associate, Full Professor)

As part of a bold new hiring initiative in several areas, Edson College of Nursing and Health Innovation at Arizona State University (ASU) invites applications for up to five tenured/tenure track faculty positions at the assistant, associate, or full levels in Nursing and Health Innovation. We are seeking nurse scientist applicants with a variety of different research interests including epidemiology/population health, intervention innovations, dissemination and implementation science, aging, dementia, family caregiving, health promotion and disease prevention with vulnerable populations, maternal child health, cancer, sleep, obesity, biobehavioral approaches, the microbiome, large datasets, and mHealth, VR/AR, and other technologies.

Applicants must be nurses with an earned, research-focused doctorate degree in nursing or another health-related field (i.e., aging/gerontology, community health, exercise science/physical activity, nutrition, public health, integrative health, preventive medicine, psychology, sociology or other related field). Applicants must also have a record of scholarly productivity, extramural funding or a strong potential for extramural funding, and teaching/mentoring experience as appropriate to the rank.

Edson College is part of a vibrant and diverse research, education, and practice community at ASU, which was named this year by U.S. News and World Report for the ninth year in a row as #1 in Innovation among all universities in the United States. Edson College offers a rich interprofessional research and teaching environment with a unique and growing transdisciplinary PhD program, a fully integrated PhD-DNP program and several research centers encompassing health promotion and disease prevention; interprofessional practice, education, and research; and aging. The college recently received a 25 million dollar gift to name the college and focusing on taking research from the “bench to the bedside.” More information about ASU’s Charter and Design Aspirations is available at the following link: https://newamericanuniversity.asu.edu/about/asu-charter-mission-and-goals.

Our Edson College faculty collaborate across professions, other colleges, and universities and have current or recent funding from NIH, PCORI, the National Center for Interprofessional Practice and Education, HRSA, the Veterans Administration, the Josiah Macy Jr. Foundation, and several other local, regional, and national organizations.

Edson College faculty also collaborate with a wide-ranging group of community and healthcare organizations to improve the economic, social, and cultural health and vitality of shared local, state, national, and global communities. Examples of these organizations include Mayo Clinic, Phoenix Children’s Hospital, Banner Health, Dignity Health, HonorHealth, and the VA Medical Center. Competitive applications and letters of interest will provide evidence (e.g., published research, professional presentations, grants and grant applications, teaching evaluations, teaching/mentoring experiences, etc.) related to the minimum and desired qualifications outlined below.
