The University of Kansas School of Nursing, invites nominations and applications for the position of Endowed Interprofessional Practice and Education (IPE) Professor in Kansas City, Kansas.

SPECIAL NOTE: The first round of this search was launched in March of 2017 with an unsuccessful outcome due to strict position parameters. The position was originally configured as a sole appointment to the School of Nursing with a requirement for an advanced degree in nursing. Those parameters have been modified to include a joint appointment and a flexible degree requirement. Please review the updated Position Profile for detailed information about this position. POSITION SUMMARY: The University of Kansas (KU) seeks a visionary team-builder and research professional prepared to lead the University in the creation, advancement and sustainment of a robust IPE program. KU has invested in unrivaled infrastructure to partner multiple disciplines in support of outcomes, both educational and clinical. The ideal candidate is one who is motivated by the opportunity to build ties across all elements of education and patient care and advance the University from IPE concept to reality. KU is committed to IPE and seeks a leader equally committed to the next generation of peerless interprofessionally skilled health care providers.

This will be a joint appointment (tenure track; research emphasis), with the primary appointment in the School of Nursing and the secondary appointment in one of the following areas: School of Medicine, School of Health Professions, ZIEL Institute or CIPER Center. It is expected that the successful candidate will have the vision and leadership necessary to join these elements in mutual support of educational and clinical outcomes. A doctorate is required for this position, but it may be in any applicable field.

SKILLS & QUALIFICATIONS: The successful candidate will bring the following skills and qualifications:

- Qualified applicants must have an academic doctoral degree and demonstrated excellence in graduate education and research related to Interprofessional Practice and Education (IPE) approaches and outcomes educationally and clinically. This may include, but not be limited to student learning outcomes, patient clinical and experiential outcomes, and/or organizational outcomes (required);
- Incumbent will have strong interpersonal, leadership, and innovative thinking skills (required);
- Demonstrated ability to lead and collaborate in interprofessional research (required);
- Evidence of a solid understanding of the status of IPE and IPE research nationally (required);
- Demonstrated ability to participate in role development (required); and
- Established external grant funding and data-based publications in IPE research (preferred).

NOMINATIONS and APPLICATIONS: EFL Associates, an executive search firm, is assisting the University of Kansas (KU) with its search for this important position. All calls and inquiries should be made through the search firm, not through KU. Nominations and applications will be held in strict confidence and candidates will remain confidential until the final stage of the search, at which time the express permission of finalists will be obtained before making their candidacy public. In addition, no contact to references will be made without prior approval of the candidate.

All documents should be submitted electronically in PDF format through the Consensus Search Support System: https://highereddecisions.com/efl/current_vacancies.asp

Applications should include:

- A letter of introduction outlining the applicant's background, and qualifications for the position. (This letter should specifically address the leadership attributes and professional competencies for this position.)
- Curriculum vitae/résumé.
- Contact information (e-mail addresses are required) for five professional references, at least one of which is a person who has reported directly to you, a second who is a colleague, and a third who is an individual to whom the applicant has reported directly.

Please note:

- For guaranteed consideration, please apply prior to December 15, 2017.
- The ideal start date is July 2018, but is negotiable.
