ABOUT US

The American Association of Service Coordinators (AASC) is the national leader in professional development and advocacy for supported affordable housing professionals. Our more than 4,000 members nationwide represent the needs of nearly 600,000 individuals and families living in supported affordable housing.

Service Coordinators facilitate community resource connections with vulnerable populations living in affordable housing and work to obtain dedicated onsite support to keep seniors, families, veterans, the previously unhoused, and disabled populations healthy, happy, and housed.

For more than 25 years, AASC has hosted the National Service Coordinator Conference to provide consistent, high-quality professional development for more than 1,000 attendees from every state. Attendees spend four days learning about the most essential topics in affordable housing from the more than 75 sessions offered!

OUR MISSION

Advancing national standards of practice for service coordination by amplifying the voice of our members.
