11th Annual Clinical Research Symposium:

Paving the Road to Success for a Clinical Trial: The Start-up Process–Sponsor and Site Perspectives

Friday, November 1, 2019

8:15 am - 5:00 pm

Eisner & Lubin Auditorium
Kimmel Center for University Life
at NYU
60 Washington Square South
New York, NY 10012
(Please bring ID to gain access to building)

Program Description:

With the increasing complexity of clinical trials and the pressure to decrease the timelines to bring new treatments to market, it becomes evident that one of the most challenging phases in the clinical trial life cycle is the start-up process. It is crucial that sponsors and sites work together right from the get-go to ensure the success of the clinical trial. Join the New York Metropolitan Chapter of ACRP as we seek to explore the components of study start-up and how each can impact on the ultimate success of the clinical trial.

Upon completion of this symposium, attendees should be able to:

1. describe what sponsors are looking for during site feasibility and how sites can work to meet the needs of sponsor;
2. describe the requirements on a clinical trial budget and what must be included in a clinical trial agreement;
3. identify how to plan an efficient timeline for study start-up and how to fulfill the skillsets needed for your start-up team.

Target Audience: All clinical research professionals.
