Enhancing Quality in the Translational Research Workforce Conference

Friday, May 4, 2018, 8:30am – 5pm

Northwestern Memorial Hospital, 251 E. Huron St., 3rd floor, Chicago, IL

EQuaTR Workforce Conference is open to professionals in clinical and translational research including investigators, clinical research coordinators, monitors, project and site managers, regulatory staff, research assistants, and allied health professionals. The conference offers the opportunity to gain additional knowledge on current trends and issues in clinical research for application in their professional setting.

Featured Plenary Speakers

Kenneth A. Getz, Associate Professor, Director of Sponsored Programs, Center for the Study of Drug Development (CSDD), Tufts University School of Medicine

Elizabeth Ness, MS, BSN, RN, Nurse Consultant, Education, Center for Cancer Research, National Cancer Institute

Program Objectives

Upon Completion of this session, participants should be able to:

1. Examine the impact of major trends and forces in the Clinical Research Enterprise (this is slightly different than what Ken submitted)
2. Discuss what it means to be engaged in clinical research and the necessary approvals to conduct research for U. S. centric investigators
3. Identify how to work effectively as part of a clinical research team
4. Analyze current trends and issues in clinical research for application in a professional setting
