Careers in Clinical Research

The Pathway to Competency and Career Development

Program Agenda:

5:00 – 6:00 pm – Registration and Networking

6:00 – 8:00 pm – Educational Presentation

8:00pm – Networking

Join us for dinner, networking, and learning as Beth Harper presents and discusses career development in clinical research. A classic, family style Italian dinner will be served, with access to a fully complimented cash bar.

Program Description: There is no question that clinical research is becoming more complex. But with complexity comes opportunity! More than ever, clinical research professionals face more career choices and can expand their careers both in terms of breadth and depth. However, with opportunity comes the responsibility to ensure competency so that the quality and integrity of clinical research conduct and the profession is maintained. In this interactive session, we will explore a range of topics related to the future of clinical research careers and how best to ensure the workforce is well prepared to meet the growing challenges in our industry. Beyond that, we will also look at ways that ACRP is supporting the career development channels for employers and employees and how individuals can create their own career map to expand their professional development.

Upon completion of this lecture, attendees should be able to:

1. Discuss the primary workforce challenges facing the clinical research industry and the ACRP initiatives designed to address these challenges
2. Describe how area employers are addressing the workforce issues
3. List the JTF (Joint Task Force) Harmonized Competencies for Clinical Research Professionals and how they can be used for career / employee development
4. Explain the concept of a career map and how this can be used to support career advancement
5. Discuss the current initiatives proposed by ACRP to address future job roles and micro-credentialing of clinical research professionals
