

Teaching Journalism and Mass Communication

Vol. 16, no. 1 (2026)

- i. Editor's Note Newly Paul

RESEARCH ARTICLES:

1. Developing a team effectiveness, peer-rating rubric for sports journalism ethics classes
Sada Reed

2. Artificial Intelligence (AI) in Media: Student Attitudes and Preparedness for Emerging Workflows
Hyangsook Lee

3. Navigating AI in the Classroom: Ethical Tensions and Pedagogical Opportunities in Communication Courses
Alexander E Carter, Indah Setiawati, Kristen A. Patrow and Lee K. Farquhar

TEACHING ARTICLES:

1. Options for the Capstone Course in Communication Departments
Jeremy Sarachan

2. COILing Toward Consensus: Empowering Students to Co-Create AI Social Contracts Across Cultures in Journalism and Mass Communication
Andrew Abernathy, Rosemary Avance and Martín Alejandro del Campo

3. Built on a Last-Minute Ask: A Virtual Networking Model for Graduating Journalism Students
Keonte Coleman

4. Imagining Pasts and Futures
Grace A. Giorgio and Oxala Da Silva

5. Using AI Tools to Augment Undergraduate Reporting
Christine McKenna

6. Editing Software in Sports: What Should We Be Teaching?
Susan Cardillo

BOOK REVIEWS:

1. Change the journalism script to minimize mass killings
Reviewed by Catherine Strong

2. Well, He Told Some of it
Reviewed by Jen Wilson