A message from Angela Britten, CFRE, AFP Aloha Chapter President

One of the most gratifying things we've witnessed as a result of the Coronavirus Pandemic is the way that our communities have come together to support one another. Time and time again, when Hawaii is hit by disaster, whether it's devastation caused by flooding, lava, or a deadly virus, our people have united to aid those less fortunate.

The knowledge that; in times of great struggle, Hawaii cares for its people; is one of the main reasons I have great hope that we will not only survive this pandemic, we will be stronger because of it. That, I believe, is the definition of resilience.

Your AFP-Aloha Chapter aims to be an organization you can rely on to support you. Our Professional Development team is continuing to present valuable webinars and our Membership team will be hosting informal virtual gatherings. AFP Global is offering a few free webinars that you should take advantage of (see Members Benefits section).

Finally, we will be sending out a survey soon to find out what your needs are as professionals and members of AFP, so they we may be better stewards of our community. I hope to see you at one of our upcoming virtual events and until then, please let us know if there are other ways we can support you.

Aloha pumehana,

Membership Committee Update

Last month, your AFP Aloha Chapter held its first virtual pau hana in place of our previously planned in-person membership event. It was wonderful to see new and familiar faces and share advice, resources, and pressing questions related to fundraising during COVID-19. Many thanks again to those who were able to join!

Member Spotlight: Liza Boffen-Yordanov Chief Development Officer & Executive Director Nanyang Technological University (Singapore)

We would like to start our new series of three profiles by getting to know some of our newest Aloha Chapter members.

Liza Boffen-Yordanov leads Nanyang Technological University's (NTU) Development team as Chief Development Officer and Executive Director of the Development Office in support of the University's drive for excellence in education, research, and innovation. Her two-decade plus career includes institutional advancement and development positions at higher education organizations in Switzerland, Washington, D.C., and Singapore.

Liza was also the President of the AFP Singapore Chapter. Liza is a Certified Fund Raising Executive (CFRE) and an AFP Master Teacher. With the closing of the Hong Kong and Singapore chapters, we are fortunate to have Liza join the Aloha Chapter and thank her for taking the time to share more about herself with us.

How long have you been at your current organization?

I joined NTU Singapore in September 2018, so just over a year and a half.

What encouraged you to join AFP?

In response to COVID-19, The Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act was passed by Congress and signed into law by President Trump on March 27, 2020.

The CARES Act is complicated in its many programs and impacts many Americans! Here are some key highlights of how the CARES Act impacts philanthropy, the challenge is keeping your donors informed of the details:

- According to Section 2205, there is now no limit to the deductions you can take for charitable contributions if you itemize (list out) your contributions (used to be 60% of AGI was deductible, now it's 100%).
- You can also donate more than 100% of your AGI, but it won't all be counted in 2020. Just for this year, you'll be able to donate more than 100% of your AGI and let that additional amount be counted as a carry-forward (at 60% AGI again) for the next 5 years.
- Less well-off donors benefit too . Taxpayers can now take a deduction for up to $300 in charitable contributions if they don't itemize on their 2020 tax form. This is a flip from the previous rule that required itemization for a tax break. 85% of taxpayers won't itemize anymore because of the 2017 increase to the standard deduction...but they can now get the added (up to) $300 deduction for charity giving without itemizing. Could be GREAT for automatic $25/month donors.
- CARES Act raises the annual cash gift limit for corporations from 10% to 25% of corporate taxable income.
- Taxpayers who donate food to their local food pantry can claim the value of that food on their taxes.
- On a larger scale, if you're a restaurant with an income of $100,000, and you donate $25,000 worth of food inventory, you can reduce your business's taxable income to $75,000. And if you're able to donate more than 25% of

I had a fabulous mentor in my first professional fundraising position at my alma mater, Trinity Washington University. I attended an AFP DC event with her way back in 1998 and was hooked!

With the current virus situation, please share how your organization has adapted?

This has been a challenging time for our students and some staff. We are lucky to have a very generous emergency fund set up in 1995 that most needy Singaporean students can access. Seeing unmet need amongst our international and graduate student population, our President, Dr. Subra Suresh and his wife, Mary, set up an "evergreen" fund in late May called the NTU Priorities Fund that asks students to pledge to make a philanthropic gift back to the University once they've graduated. To date we've raised almost $500,000 for that fund and continue to see donors give to our NTU Bursary Fund (endowed) set up to help our students pay tuition and living expenses.

What has been the most challenging, professionally and/or personally during this time?

Understanding that many of our students who have an urgent need can find relief with current funds available but finding the "hidden" pockets of need within our community has been difficult. The stories of students asking for $50 to buy rice and tofu to get them through three months of life on campus has been hard, compounded by the lack of flights available for our international students to return home has been heartbreaking. This is one period in my career when I'm heartened to see everyone come together and fight as a community to help our students-and I'm glad it's pointing out some of our hidden populations.

Coming out of this situation, what are your hopes for the future?

I do hope we've realized that many of us can have fulfilling and productive professions working from home. The idea of spending hours commuting every day (a reality for many on my team) is finally being seen as a loss of productivity. I sincerely hope we can show the value of this telework "thing" and make it a normal part of our work lives!

Can you share a little about your family?

I'm lucky to have a stay-at-home husband who still isn't sure what exactly I "do" after 22 years of marriage. Our daughter is in her second year at the University of Western Australia in Perth studying agriculture and business law. We have a farm in Ontario, Canada that we purchased just after 9/11 and she has plans, so many great plans!

Share something fun you've been doing during the stay at home advisory?

I finally read books I've been eager to read for a few months and watch Netflix series I didn't want to fully commit to! I also started a click and grow garden that hasn't really panned out as I expected. Hope other green thumbs gardening in apartments have had more luck!

What's a good place to have a lunch meeting-with staff?

I'll always say McDonalds. You truly get to know someone when you have to stand in line with them and they have to order a meal they've likely ordered a hundred times before-are they smooth in telling their story, do they get on with it so others can also order and how do they treat the staff behind the counter? I've revised my opinion a few times on team members after going to lunch with them at a fast food outlet.

Registration Fee Waived for Premium Webinars:

We know times are tough, but you still need to stay at the top of your fundraising game. That's why AFP has waived registration fees for to $75,000. And if you're able to donate more than 25% of your AGI - let's say $50,000 - you'll still only be able to write off $25,000 this year, and the additional $25,000 will carry over to the next year (where the tax deduction limit will likely return to 15% of AGI).

AFP Aloha Chapter Government Relations/Advocacy Committee Update

On March 16, 2020, the Legislature recessed due to the COVID-19 pandemic by adopting Senate Concurrent Resolution 242.

It is currently unknown when the Legislature will reconvene, but when they do so it is expected that the session will be shortened and focus mainly on the State Budget, COVID related funding and relief measures and other critically needed legislation rather than "nice to have" legislation. Legislation to repeal the GET on fundraising income (SB No. 2112) passed in the Senate and is stalled now in the House. Its prospects this year seem remote.

We will keep you updated on important legislative issues related to the nonprofit industry. And if you would like to join the Government Relations/ Advocacy Committee, please contact Hugh Jones, Chair, at Hugh.Jones@uhfoundation.org or Susan Oshiro at admin@afphawaii.org.
