LGBTQ2+ Minority Stress in the Workplace: How Discrimination Hurts Health

Discriminatory comments or actions can build up and have a major impact on a person's work performance, as well as their health. The impact of such experiences can accumulate into minority stress.

Jade Pichette, an LGBTQ2+ educator, highlights what minority stress is, how it impacts the workplace and steps we can take toward inclusivity.

Coming this September - Fireside Chat with Edgar Villanueva

Philanthropy is changing, in many ways for the better. One of the leaders driving that positive momentum is Edgar Villanueva, the author and creator of Decolonizing Wealth and the Decolonizing Wealth Project (among many other accolades). Hear from Villanueva live and ask him questions when you attend his fireside chat at AFP Colorado's annual Rocky Mountain Philanthropy Institute conference this fall.

Villanueva will help you think differently – and hopefully – about the intersection of philanthropy and colonization, from your role, to your organization's, to the system's as a whole.

If you're passionate about social justice and looking to reimagine the possibilities ahead, you can't miss this year's conference.
