Another Fantastic RMPI In The Books

Rocky Mountain Philanthropy Institute 2021 brought us one step closer to discovering our purpose while we reimagined the possibilities for ourselves, our organizations, and our sector. We are still buzzing from the energy and inspiration we took away from RMPI 2021, which brought nonprofit professionals from Colorado and beyond together virtually to grow, network, and rejuvenate.

THANK YOU FOR JOINING RMPI 2021

Sept 9-10 · Purpose & Possibilities

Reggie Rivers moderating an enlightening fireside chat with Edgar Villanueva

Nadia Hallgren on the possibilities of storytelling for our sector

The conference kicked off with Farduus Ahmed, who shared how putting our purpose first helps us develop resilience in ourselves and our communities. Featured speaker Nadia Hallgren, director of Netflix's award-winning documentary "Becoming" about Michelle Obama, shared how we can more effectively and conscientiously tell stories that unlock even greater possibilities. Keynote speaker Edgar Villanueva of the Decolonizing Wealth Project presented thought-provoking and enlightening insights on how we can continue to push our sector towards justice and equity by counteracting the dynamics of colonization in philanthropy.

In between plenary sessions, participants attended workshop sessions, learning about everything from the community-centric fundraising movement to building an effective communications plan, and so much more!

Thank you to all of our sponsors, attendees, and committee members who made RMPI possible!

Happy Holidays!

For those of you celebrating the Jewish high holidays, we wish you a sweet and Happy New Year! If you're fasting today in honor of Yom Kippur, we wish you a very easy fast and g'mar chatima tova!
