AFP Colorado Chapter IDEA Cohort

AFP Colorado Chapter is committed to expanding the pool of diverse fundraisers in our field and to supporting diverse communities. As a part of these efforts, the Chapter has put together a cohort of five participants who have received a scholarship that will provide a year of fully supported AFP membership. This Cohort is called the Inclusion, Diversity, Equity, and Access (IDEA) Cohort. The group started with attendance at Rocky Mountain Philanthropy Institute and the Penelope Burk education session. Each member of the cohort will be paired with a mentor and additional education content will be created. This is a one-year pilot program, made possible through generous sponsorship from The Denver Foundation. AFP Colorado Chapter hopes to find funding to continue the program.

Congratulations to Iris Abraham, Lauren Archuletta, Alejandra Colmenero, Jenny Martin, and Deyanira Zavala. They were selected to be the inaugural IDEA Cohort for the AFP Colorado Chapter.

Ethics and Perspectives

As AFP’s Ethics Month comes to a close, it is important to remember that ethics is an everyday affair. AFP chose to shine a light on ethics during the month of October, but as fundraising professionals we need to think about it every day and in everything we do. Sometimes it helps to get an outside perspective, because ethical challenges are often unique, complicated, nuanced and hard to define. Internal reviews may miss essential information because staff are unaware of, or hesitant to, bring up ethical concerns. An outside perspective can help identify ethical concerns and create strategies to address them. To learn more about common scenarios and how an outside perspective can help, check out an article shared by AFP Global this month: Ethical Relationships: The Value of an Outside Perspective by Barbara Maduell.
