The Above the Best Film is based on the #1 Best Selling book South of Heaven using actual footage to create an unprecedented immersive documentary-narrative film. The film tells the story of Apache Fighter Pilot Dan Flores and his year deployment to the most dangerous valley in Afghanistan. A stunning, eye-popping glimpse into the life of an Apache gun ship pilot during his year in the fight in the Hindu Kush Mountains and the Korengal Valley. Through actual, aerial combat footage and corresponding video from soldiers on the ground, the film will bring the audience in the cockpit and on the ground at the same time like no other film in history. See why Army Aviators say they fly “above the best” and the lengths these folks will go to protect each other in the most dangerous place on Earth. Joshua Lang, co-producer on the film and former Apache crewchief and Army veteran of Iraq and Afghanistan will be on hand to talk about the film and answer questions.
