

Ramin Valian

Ramin Valian has over two decades of sales leadership, marketing and strategic planning experience in the specialty pharmaceutical and biotech business, and over 14 years' experience in the U.S. Eye Care market. Since joining Allergan in 2005 he has held many senior leadership positions of increasing responsibility in operational and strategic roles. In addition to his current leading the Interventional Glaucoma business, he is also responsible for the reimbursement teams focusing on supporting access for patients and practices in eye care. During his tenure at Allergan, he has led the launches of 6 major products, including most US eye care licensing opportunities in devices as well as pharma. In addition, he led the Global Eye Care Strategy group as Vice President of Global Strategic Marketing, where he directed and lead the global commercial strategy and activities designed to increase the net value of the Allergan Eye Care franchise working in collaboration with the R&D as well as Business Development. He has experience in a variety of segments and therapeutic areas including General Medicine and Diagnostics.