

Gerald D. Cagle, PhD

Jerry is an experienced pharmaceutical executive with managerial, technical and business experience spanning more than three decades. He served in key leadership roles at Alcon, the world's largest eye care company. Starting as a senior scientist in microbiology, he held several positions of increasing responsibility at Alcon, including Vice President of Product Development and Vice President of Regulatory Affairs. During his last 13 years at Alcon, he was a Senior Vice President and Chief Scientific Officer. While at Alcon, Jerry was a regular contributor to new drug applications (NDAs) and premarket approvals (PMAs), he holds approximately 20 issued patents and has authored numerous publications. Jerry currently serves as a board member for Graybug Vision.