"The Role of the Biostatistician in Cancer Research"

This will be a personal and historical tour of some of the outstanding contributions to biostatistics in the 20th Century. The ground breaking accomplishments of the group of the National Institutes of Health biostatisticians will be discussed and some of the individual accomplishments of Jerome Cornfield, Nathan Mantel, and David R. Cox. Some predictions will be given for research in the 21st Century.

HACASA meetings are open to the public! Please pass on copies of this announcement to colleagues and friends and post on appropriate bulletin boards.
