

2021 ONE Teaching Award: Call for Nominations

Organizations and the Natural Environment (ONE) division of the Academy of Management invites nominations, including self-nominations, for 2021 ONE Teaching Award. This award seeks to recognize and celebrate teaching accomplishments in the classroom and in educational publications. The award advances the teaching aims of the ONE division by promoting learning in the area of relationships between organizations and the natural environment. These significant relationships need improvement so as to support the continued existence, development, and management of human organizations and societies. The pollution of air, water, and land, and the depletion of both renewable and non-renewable resources as a result of actions of formal organizations are the most obvious manifestations of these relationships. Our next generations require the related education to support them in meeting these challenges and it is the current and future generations of scholars that will enable change through this education.

I. Brief Description of the Award:

The award will be given to impactful teaching and pedagogical research based on a teaching record over the past 5 years (from 2016) that demonstrates diverse teaching expertise at the undergraduate, graduate and/or executive/practitioner levels. It is not necessary to have taught at all of these levels to apply for the award, but it is considered advantageous to have experience over at least a couple of these levels. Consideration for this will be given based on the teaching opportunities at the particular institution where some universities do not offer a full range of degrees and/or have a particular focus. The nomination letter should outline any special circumstances related to this issue. The criteria for the award include the following:

- 1) Having demonstrated a record of teaching extensively, including developing teaching materials, on ONE domain topics;
- 2) Having published on teaching/education topics, preferably with a ONE orientation.
- 3) Having worked with practitioners and/or in entrepreneurial/ experiential learning settings with students to promote environmentally-sensitive policies and practices, locally and/or internationally;
- 4) Having encouraged holistic, integrative and interdisciplinary ONE learning.
