

Call for participants: TIM Division and AMJ Virtual PDW

The Technology and Innovation Management (TIM) Division of the Academy of Management and the Academy of Management Journal (AMJ) are jointly organizing a virtual, synchronous Paper Development Workshop for junior scholars (post-doctoral researchers and junior faculty). We specifically also invite scholars from the global south to submit their work.

Date: 28 Feb 2024 (2:00 pm – 4:00 pm CET; 8:00 am – 10:00 am Eastern Daylight; 9:00 pm – 11:00 pm China)

Who should apply: Junior faculty and post-doctoral researchers

Application Deadline: 2 Feb 2024

The TIM Research Committee and Academy of Management Journal are pleased to bring you a Virtual Paper Development Workshop. We have designed the workshop as an opportunity for junior scholars interested in technology, innovation, creativity, product development, and other TIM-related topics to receive feedback on unpublished papers. Faculty members can be at any stage from incoming assistant professor/lecturer to pre-tenure associate. The workshop will center around dedicated time for virtual, small-group round table conversations with senior faculty mentors about submitting your work to AMJ.

Senior faculty mentors: Scholars whose research focuses on TIM areas will serve as mentors; they are drawn from the panel of AMJ senior editors and the TIM Research Committee. List to be finalized from the below individuals.

Application Process: To apply, please fill out this form and submit a (1) CV and (2) extended abstract (Max 1,800 words – around 6 pages) of your paper. Capacity is limited, and therefore we may not be able to accept all applications.
