

American Society for Reproductive Medicine

Practice Committee Charter

Committee Purpose

The purpose of the Practice Committee is to promote a culture of evidence-based practice within ASRM and the medical community by developing clinical practice guidelines and committee opinions, that are evidenced-based, centered on issues impacting professional practice in the area of reproductive medicine.

Committee Structure

The Practice Committee is comprised of a Chair and eleven appointed members, including, representatives of each of the five affiliated societies, three at-large members, the ACOG liaison, a representative of the ASRM Executive Committee, a patient/community representative, and a consulting epidemiologist.

For the last year of the current chair's term, a vice-chair will be added to the Committee structure with the intent for them to assume chairpersonship the next year. If the vice-chair is a current committee member, the position made vacant with the move to vice-chairpersonship will be filled with a new member using the usual committee nominations process.

The ASRM Chief Executive Officer and the ASRM Chief Education and Scientific Director serve on the Committee ex officio.

The appointment terms of the chair and all committee members shall be three years, renewable once, with one third expiring annually. The term of the vice-chair (when present) and Board representative shall be 1 year (no renewal). The Committee utilizes the expertise of external consultants when necessary.

Committee Functions

- Identifies clinical practice issues that are relevant and important to the field of reproductive medicine.
- Conducts systematic searches of the biomedical literature and evaluates evidence pertaining to clinical procedures in reproductive medicine.
- Creates a process of interaction with other organizations that share concerns in areas related to the practice of reproductive medicine.
- Plans, organizes, directs, and evaluates initiatives to the ASRM members and leadership related to education and implementation of evidence-based clinical practice guidelines
- Develops state-of-the-art opinions on new techniques and their appropriateness for clinical application and on subjects related to clinical management, as necessary.

Meeting Cadence

The Practice Committee meets for a day and a half, twice annually, January and July, via virtual and/or in-person format.

Committee Reporting

The biannual Committee report is disseminated to the Board of Directors each Fall and Spring during the Board of Directors meeting.