Why Join IAUA?

The IAUA is composed of more than 350 members including urologists, residents and fellows in urology training and other medical professionals who devote 75% of their professional practice to urology and are of Indian origin. The mission of the Indian American Urological Association is to represent all 600 Indian urologists practicing in the United States and to enhance and provide urological care through educational and charitable work not only in India, but also in Southeast Asia and the rest of the world.

Benefits to membership include:

- Excellent scientific programs.
- Your own IAUA member ID number, which gives you access to the IAUA website and members only section.
- Networking opportunities with other IAUA members and experts in the field of urology.

Meeting

AUA Annual Meeting

IAUA holds one meeting a year in conjunction with the AUA Annual Meeting. The meeting offers an opportunity for learning and networking through meeting new members and welcoming old friends. IAUA encourages the professional and social interaction of urologists and affiliated scientists of Indian origin in the United States at the AUA and sectional meetings.

Fellowship Program

AUA/IAUA Chakrobortty Fellowship Program

The IAUA has administered the Chakrobortty Fellowship with great success since 1990 in honor of their founding president, Dr. Hitendra Chakrobortty. In the spirit of collaboration, it was decided that a partnership between the IAUA and the AUA can directly impact the educational opportunities for young urologists while improving the delivery of quality care to patients in India. Such collaboration will also enhance the knowledge and global perspectives of AUA and IAUA members in North America.

Therefore, the AUA and the IAUA have partnered to create the AUA/IAUA Chakrobortty Fellowship Program to further promote the interchange of urological skills, expertise and knowledge, and provide outstanding and promising junior faculty members with an opportunity to interact with colleagues in North America. Medical advances are often the result of fruitful collaboration and this interchange is designed to facilitate such opportunities.

The program is designed for two Indian urologists to travel to North America for up to a 3-month period prior to and/or after the AUA Annual Meeting. During these visits the scholars observe urologic surgeries/procedures, attend clinics and staff activities.
