Exploring Change

This 1/2 day session helps CRE professionals develop a clear understanding of the factors involved in change so they can take action and lead change effectively.

Overview

The ability to engage employees in change is rapidly becoming a key determinant of business success. In our global, fast-paced business environment, organization constantly need to reinvent themselves – and their tools and processes – to stay on top of the game.

Exploring change offers a structured dialog that puts the spotlight on four success factors that can fast track change in your organization. It highlights the human dimension of change, providing valuable insights for leaders that want to help their teams or departments act on change – now and in the future. Because the only constant is change...

Learning Objectives:

- Assess shared experiences of the change processes
- Develop a deeper understanding of the human side to change
- Construct a shared language and build a shared ownership in what it takes to get people on board
- Apply theoretical models for organizational change
- Increase the return on investment on change initiatives
- Navigate organizational resistance to change

Feedback from the Leadership Development Program seminars:

"The interactive learning process had everyone engaged. The competitiveness engaged debate and flat out was fun."

"A very effective presentation that touched on the key elements of leadership so critical in today's world."

LEADING OTHERS

The second level of the Leadership Development Program. Recommended for high-potential frontline managers through senior-level leaders with at least five years of experience within the field of corporate real estate who want to move into higher-level management positions?

Our new Leadership Development Program focuses on leadership and soft-skill development within the context of the corporate real estate (CRE) business environment. This is the perfect complement for the existing MCR and SLCR programs that focus mainly on the technical aspects of the job, the primary responsibilities essential to high performance in a CRE position.

"Attending the CoreNet Global classes allows me to stay fresh and informed in an industry that exists because of change."
