Study From Home Ergonomic Tips

MONITOR It is important to position the top line of text on your screen slightly below eye level and at an arm’s reach. To do so, utilize a monitor arm or laptop holder. Alternatively you can use something sturdy like a box, reams of paper, or a stack of books. Tilt your monitor slightly away from your body to accommodate your natural downward viewing gaze.

KEYBOARD Flatten the keyboard tabs to maintain straight wrists. Rest your palm – not your wrists – on a palm support.

STAND To break up prolonged seated postures, stand for up to 15 minutes per hour. Don’t have a sit/stand workstation? Consider standing during phone calls or class breaks.
