Emotional Intelligence – The Key To CRE Leadership Success

A one day workshop being run by CoreNet Global UK Chapter is inviting business leaders operating in the turbulent and challenging world of corporate real estate (CRE) to tap into their emotional intelligence – alongside their rational skills – to engage, energise and inspire their teams and the colleagues around them. The event takes place at the Institute of Directors on Pall Mall in London on Tuesday 8th November.

No small undertaking, the 'Leading with Emotional Intelligence' workshop is designed to guide attendees to think, feel and act in a manner that has a positive impact on themselves and on others, consequently enhancing overall performance.

The event is being held as part of CoreNet Global UK Chapter's 4i Forum – initiate, interpret, influence, implement – which is designed to encourage those involved in corporate real estate to think more strategically and maximise opportunities to link their role with their firm's wider business objectives.

The full day workshop is open to CoreNet members and non-members alike and is being run by two of the UK's leading authorities on emotional intelligence, Andrea Bacon and Ali Dawson, who have co-authored a book on the subject.

Participants will leave the workshop with:

- an understanding as to where their emotions come from and the effects they have
- an insight to their current level of emotional intelligence through a self-perception diagnostic

- techniques to raise their self-awareness and enable them to use their emotions to their advantage

Places on the workshop cost £125 + VAT for members of CoreNet Global UK Chapter and £375 + VAT for non-members. They can be booked online via www.corenetglobal.org.uk or by calling 01722 341688.
