Where, how & what do we really want from the workplace?

With signs of economic recovery and some increased confidence, employees are beginning to review their career development and potentially plan for a change. With 'a job for life' seemingly being assigned to the history books, we will be exploring what role property and real estate plays in attracting and retaining the best staff?

This event looks to explore the evidence and opinions of how an office environment and location can influence the type of people, their attitudes and ultimately the culture of the company - as well as speaking up for 'Generation Y' and their demands when coming into the workplaces of the future.

Join CoreNet UK and YEP (Young Entrepreneurs in Property) for their annual joint event and voice your opinions to the panel.
