

Leading with Emotional Intelligence®

"To convince them, you must yourself believe." Winston Churchill

Imagine working in a world where your entire team holds you in high regard, is engaged, energised and inspired, and delivers consistently strong performance..... No, this isn't a world you have to view through rose-tinted glasses; this is the result of business leaders and managers using emotional intelligence as they go about their work.

CoreNet Global UK Chapter has enlisted the help of the leading authorities on Emotional Intelligence® to run a full day workshop designed to inspire members to think, feel and act in a manner that has a positive impact on themselves and on others. In today's turbulent environment, business leaders can no longer rely solely on their essential 'rational' skills and management processes to deliver results. Today it is crucial that they tap into their emotions.

Participants will leave the workshop with:

- an understanding as to where their emotions come from and the effects they have
- an insight to their current level of emotional intelligence through a self-perception diagnostic
- techniques to raise their self-awareness and enable them to use their emotions to their advantage

THE 4i FORUM

In the interests of encouraging members involved in CRE to think more strategically and maximise opportunities to link their role with their firm's wider business objectives, CoreNet Global UK Chapter created the 4i Forum – initiate, interpret, influence, implement.
