

Summer Social Architectural Walking Tour with Ken Allinson

This year's Summer Social is an Architectural Walking Tour setting off from All Bar One, Tower Hill, London, EC3R 5BA at 5.30 pm and taking in:

- Tower Hill: why it is such an interesting place?
- Fenchurch & Lloyds area: some notable buildings from Baron Rogers and Baron Foster.
- A preamble through some back alleys, going from potential fulfilled to potential neglected.
- Bank: a junction of seven roads, with as many notable and Gold Medal winning architects. Who were they?
- (Time Permitting) A preamble around a small area that epitomises the City as a strange conjunction of history and modernity.
- The tour ends with a well deserved beer at the Counting House, 50 Cornhill, London, EC3V 3PD. This will be an informal get together for walkers and non-walkers alike.

See you there!

Tour places are limited and the tour will last approximately one hour. A second tour may be offered if demand is high.

TOUR GUIDE

Ken Allinson RIBA is a fun and inspirational character who was taught at the Architectural Association and has varied practice experience beginning with firms such as John Winter, Archigram Architects, Goddard Manton and Farrell Grimshaw, including the role of Associate Partner of Terry Farrell and DEGW.

He is now a Director of Architectural Dialogue who leads architectural study tours for professionals. He is currently writing a theoretical book concerning architectural authorship and architectural experience.
