

John D. McFarlan*, FCSI

"In recognition of your distinguished and dedicated service to the Construction Specifications Institute, as a member, as a charter member of the Atlanta Chapter, as a member and chairman of numerous Chapter committees, as a Vice-President and President of your Chapter, as an organizer of the first Southeastern Regional Conference; and in recognition of your service as a member of the 1962 Convention Program Committee, as an originator and prime mover of the Atlanta Chapter project known as Reference Workmanship Specifications which was presented by you to the membership at the 1962 Convention and which is now a recognized and sustaining technical activity of the Institute, as a member of the Institute Technical Review Board, and in further recognition of your ability, leadership and zeal in furthering the objectives of the Institute at both Chapter and National levels, you are advanced to Fellowship in the Institute on this 22nd day of April 1964."
Dallas, Texas

JOHN DONALD McFARLAN, JR. was born in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, in 1908. He graduated from the University of Pennsylvania with a Bachelor of Architecture degree in 1930. In World War II, he served as a major in the Corps of Engineers in India, from 1942 to 1946.

McFarlan was the organizer of the first Southeastern Regional Conference in 1960 and a speaker at CSI national conventions in 1962, 1963, and 1965. He was an architect and chief specifications writer for Roben and Company in Atlanta until his retirement in 1973.

In addition to his CSI activities, he was a member of AIA, ACI, and ASTM.

CSI Membership

Atlanta Chapter, 1958

Institute Offices, Committees

Vice President, 1965-67