

Joseph N. Lucas*, FCSI

"In recognition of your achievement as editor of the Chicago Chapter publication, Change Order, chapter secretary and vice-president, delegate and speaker at numerous regional and annual meetings, as director associate for the Central Section, member of the National Awards Committee, as promoter of and lecturer at educational seminars and in chapter development, as a tireless worker for the Institute and the team approach to construction problems, you are advanced to Fellowship in the Institute on this 25th day of May, 1966."
Boston, Massachusetts

JOSEPH N. LUCAS was born in 1918 in East Chicago, Indiana. He attended Indiana University, interrupted by World War II, later completed courses at Chicago Technical College and University of Illinois in the field of building construction.

Lucas was estimator and salesman for Mundet Cork Corporation from 1947 to 1950. He began his private firm in 1950 as a manufacturer's agent, specializing in technical promotion of specialty building products among specification writers, architects, and engineers. Lucas also was director of research for AA Wire Products Company.

In addition to CSI his activities, he was a member of the American Society for Testing and Materials, the American Concrete Institute, the Building Research Institute, the Tile Contractors Association of America, and the National Concrete Masonry Association.

CSI Membership

Chicago Chapter

Institute Offices, Committees

Institute Director, FY 1962-63

Chapter Offices, Committees

Secretary

Vice President