

Robert L. Dye, FCSI

"For your remarkable service to the Institute's Certification program at all levels; your revitalization of the Kansas City Chapter's Scholarship Program; your involvement in "From Crayons to CAD"; your promotion of MasterFormat 2004; your efforts and success in helping to revitalize the Flint Hills Chapter; and your promotion of cooperation with allied industry organizations, you are advanced to Fellowship in the Institute on the 22nd day of June 2007."
Baltimore, Maryland

ROBERT DYE joined the Kansas City Chapter in 1990. He was soon involved in chapter activities, and in 1994 was asked to serve on the Chapter Certification Committee. Since that time, he has been involved in CSI at the chapter, region, and Institute level.

Bob has worked for a wide array of construction, architectural and engineering firms. He now works as a roofing consultant and has been recognized nationally for his design work. The National Roofing Contractors Association recognized his design for the Crittenton Center re-roofing project in Kansas City, Missouri, in their annual Excellence in Design Award competition. The Spray Polyurethane Foam Association recognized his work on the West Virginia University Coliseum. Another recent project includes being the specification consultant for the re-roofing project at the Louisiana Superdome.

He successfully passed the CSI exams for Certified Construction Specifier and Certified Construction Contract

Administrator. In addition, he passed the Roof Consultant Institute's exam as a Registered Roof Consultant.

He has been a willing worker for the North Central Region. He has been Region Certification Chair over several terms, and has received region awards for his efforts.

Dye also served five years on the Institute Certification Committee, including two years as chair. During his tenure, the committee's charge was to re-write the CDT and certification exams, and the respective study guides, based on the recently updated MasterFormat 2004 and the Project Resource Manual.

His service to the community isn't limited to CSI. He has lectured at his alma mater, Kansas State University, as well as Johnson County Community College, the Builders' Association/AGC Training Center, the Roof Consultants Institute, and the National Association of Women in Construction.
