

Nina M. Giglio, FCSI

For your exceptional contributions advancing Knowledge Management and Construction Practice; for your commitment to nurturing SCIP and advocating for “The Care and Feeding of Your Specifier”; for mentoring students and emerging professionals; for advancing the construction industry in significant and lasting ways; and for your dedicated service to the Institute, you are advanced to Fellowship in the Institute on the 14th day of September 2012.

NINA M. GIGLIO was born in Albuquerque, New Mexico, and received her Bachelor of Architecture from Texas Tech University. As President of HALL | Building Information Group, a consulting firm specializing in improving the quality of construction documents and the built environment, her work with the firm includes project and manufacturer guide specifications, as well as consulting work in the areas of sustainability, quality assurance, and building diagnostics.

Believing that education is a lifetime endeavor, Nina follows her passion to mentor individuals working toward CSI certificates and certifications. She also has taught students working toward various construction-related degrees, at the University of New Mexico and at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

She continues her passion for knowledge sharing with the profession through the preparation of articles, industry references, and presentations not only for the architectural community, but for those in allied professions. Her favorite topics include construction documents and formats, good specification practices, use of emerging technology, project management, and design and building information management.

She has had the pleasure of working on numerous books, including co-authoring the Field Guide to Residential Construction; contributor and Senior Executive Editor for Architectural Graphics Standards for Residential Construction, 2nd edition; and Executive Editor for Architectural Graphic Standards, 11th edition.

Nina's contributions to the Construction Specifications Institute, inspirational leadership, and tireless dedication to educating others have earned her respect within the industry.
