Strategies for Reducing Falls in the ED Education Course

April 30th, 2024 @ 12:00PM

Meal will be provided

Please note this course is non accredited

As more and more patients enter the hospital through the ED, emergency nurses are not only tasked with saving lives in emergencies – but they're also responsible for keeping patients safe from adverse outcomes such as falls. This course presented by one of Stryker's experienced clinical consultants will share eye-opening statistics, discuss human financial cost of falls, identify risk factors and interventions, and focus on evidence-based practices in the utilization of technology for prevention of patient falls.

Key Objectives

- Distinguish between the different types of falls
- Discuss human and financial costs of a fall
- Identify ED-specific risk factors for falls
- Discuss evidence-based fall prevention practices in the emergency department
- Discuss integration of technology into fall and injury prevention practices

This course is offered by Stryker.
