

What Job Seekers Want

Insights for Hiring Managers and Employers

What does the job search experience really look like from the candidate's perspective, and what might be turning strong applicants away from your organization?

Join us for a candid panel discussion exploring the full job-seeking journey, from application to offer. Hear directly from emerging evaluators about what they value most, what influences their decisions, and the red flags that can discourage them from pursuing or accepting roles.

Discussion Topics:

- The job search process and candidate experience at each stage
- What job seekers want most, and what they are willing to walk away from
- Organizational red flags that deter applicants
- Signals of a supportive, inclusive, and transparent workplace
- Practical strategies to improve recruitment and candidate experience

Date: Tuesday, June 9

Time: 5:00 PM ET

Click here to register

Audience: Hiring Managers, Supervisors, and Employers in Evaluation

Gain the perspective you need to attract and keep the next generation of evaluators.

Hosted by:

Evaluation Managers and Supervisors TIG
Graduate Students and New Evaluators TIG