1. This division of The Geological Society of America, Inc., is organized in accordance with Article IX, Divisions of the Society, of the bylaws of that Society and is governed by the provisions of that article.
2. Name. The name of the division is the Structural Geology and Tectonics Division of The Geological Society of America, Inc.
3. Definition. Structural geology and tectonics are the investigation of the geometry, kinematics, dynamics, and mechanics of deformation in natural earth materials at all scales. These investigations are frequently field-based, and also draw on remote observation, experimental work and computer simulations. They frequently involve other earth scientists, other scientists and/or other members of society. The investigations increase the basic understanding of geological processes and contribute to the well being of society.
4. Purpose. The purpose of the division is to bring together scientists interested in structural geology and tectonics to facilitate the presentation and discussion of their problems and ideas, to stimulate communication with other earth scientists, to promote research and the publication of results on structural geology and tectonic studies, and to advise and assist the officers and committees of the Society in matters pertaining to structural geology and tectonics.

ARTICLE II

Membership

1. Any Member, Fellow, Honorary Fellow, or Affiliate of the Geological Society of America who is in good standing may become a member of the Structural Geology and Tectonics Division. ARTICLE VIIIRules and Amendment of the Bylaws

1. Rules and Regulations. The management board of the division, by a majority vote, may adopt, rescind, or amend rules and regulations supplementing the bylaws at any time. These are called the Rules and Regulations of the division. The permanent adoption of changes to the Rules and Regulations must be approved by a majority vote of the management board at the annual meeting of the management board following any temporary changes of the Rules and Regulations made during the previous year. Changes to the Rules and Regulations may also be made by a majority vote of division members present at the annual business meeting of the division. Changes in the Rules and Regulations, other than those proposed and adopted by the management board may be proposed by any member of the division and must be received in writing by the secretary-treasurer of the division at least sixty (60) days prior to the annual business meeting of the division.

2. The management board of the division may by a majority vote propose actions dealing with the bylaws. The Structural Geology and Tectonics Division of the Geological Society of America

Rules and Regulations of the Division

1. Purpose. These Rules and Regulations serve as the basis for the operation and staffing of committees and other positions that function to support the activities of the Structural Geology and Tectonics Division of the Geological Society of America, Inc.
2. Program Committee. The program committee plans and arranges for the technical program of the division at the annual meeting and other such programs as may be directed by the management board. The committee will proactively encourage and develop contributions for oral and poster sessions, short courses, field trips, and other outlets at conferences. The program committee consists of the first vice-chair of the division as chair, second vice-chair of the division and three voting members of the division who are appointed by the management board. The program committee chair serves as the division's senior division representative on the GSA Joint Technical Program Committee for the GSA Annual Meeting. New committee members are appointed by the division chair after the annual business meeting with notification of their tasks and deadlines. Their term of appointment commences on the next date of submission of oral sessions proposals for the GSA Annual Meeting. Committee members that are not members of the management board may serve up to three consecutive annual terms, preferably in a staggered manner so that each member is appointed in a different year than the other two. Retiring committee members complete their term on the date of the submission of oral session proposals for the GSA Annual Meeting.

For the general meeting, the program committee actively solicits elements of the technical program including Pardee Symposia proposals, topical session proposals, fieldtrip proposals and short course proposals. The approach of the committee is to work one to two years in advance of upcoming national meetings to develop the contribution of the division to the technical program, particularly with an eye to identifying creative synergies between the different elements of the program.

3. Nominating Committee. The nominating committee generates the slate of candidates for the annual election of division officers. The nominating committee consists of three voting members of the division. Two members will be appointed by the division chair in consultation with the management board following the annual meeting. These two members are not members of the management board. The chair and third member of the committee will be the past division chair. The nominating committee identifies two members of the division for the position of second vice-chair by May 1. In alternate years, the nominating committee also identifies two members of the division for the position of secretary-treasurer, should the current secretary-treasurer not wish to serve a new term of office.

Once identified, the committee chair will seek approval of the slate of nominees by the management board. Once approved or revised, these nominees will form part of the regular ticket presented to the membership for a vote. The full ticket annually consists of the two nominees for the second vice-chair, the second vice-chair as the nominee for first vice-chair, and the first vice-chair as the nominee for chair, and may include two nominees for secretary-treasurer. Upon approval of the regular ticket, the nominating committee for the year is dissolved. Ideally, the nominating committee will complete its work with approval by the management board by June 1.

4. Career Contribution Award Committee

- a. Selection Committee. The selection committee consists of a chair and two other voting members of the division who are not members of the management board. The members of the selection committee shall serve for three years. Terms of appointment are staggered such that one new member is named each year by the division chair in consultation with the management board immediately following the annual meeting. The chair of the committee is the senior member as measured in time served on the committee at that time, unless otherwise specified by the division chair and management board.

- b. Frequency of the Award. Normally, a single award will be made annually, but in any particular year, it may be withheld if the management board decides that no suitable candidate has been identified.
- c. Requirement to Qualify. The award shall be made to an individual who throughout her/his career has made numerous distinguished contributions which have clearly advanced the discipline of structural geology or tectonics. The successful candidate need not be a citizen of the United States, and further is not required to be a member of the Geological Society of America. The award may not be given posthumously unless the decision to give the award is made before the death of the awardee. Members of the selection committee and the management board shall be ineligible for the duration of their terms.
- d. The Award. The award shall consist of an engraved plaque and a certificate. The details of plaque and certificate will be recommended by the management board of the division and approved by the Council. The award will be presented at the business meeting of the division during the annual meeting. Normally, the recipient will be announced by the division chair at the annual business meeting. A notable person acquainted with the recipient's work will present a citation reviewing the contributions of the award recipient. The citationist will introduce the recipient to the chair of the division who will, in turn, present the award. The recipient, if desired, will then say a few words in response.
- e. Selection Procedures. Nominations for the award shall be made in accordance with the following procedures:
  - (1) The secretary of the division will, at the earliest convenience, but no later than December 5, notify the chair of the selection committee with the contact information of the other committee members; a copy of the selection procedures; a list of past award recipients; instructions for submitting nominations; and notification of the deadline for receipt of nominations by the chair of the selection committee. This information is available from the secretary for other members of the division upon request.

In addition, the management board will invite nominations from members of the division and the Society by communicating with the entire membership via an announcement in the newsletter of the Structural Geology and Tectonics Division and through other appropriate mass communication conduits. The announcement shall include: the Requirement to Qualify statement, the deadline date for receipt of nominations; the contact information for the selection committee chair who receives the nominations; and a request for information regarding candidates. Such information in support of the nomination should summarize the major career contributions of the candidate to the science of structural geology and/or tectonics. The significance and exceptional achievement of these contributions should be highlighted. A listing of key publications by the candidate and the institutional affiliation and address of the candidate should also be included. The nomination process should be completed by February 28.

(2) The chair of the selection committee will distribute a consolidated list of candidates, together with supporting materials, to committee members shortly after the deadline for submission of nominations. Each member, including the chair, will select from among the list of candidates a first, second, and third choice for the award. These selections will be awarded by a score of three for first choice, two for second, and one for third, the results of this ballot being used to reduce the number of candidates to those who will comprise the ballot for the committee's final consideration of candidates. The committee then revotes to select a recipient for the Award. If needed, the committee further discusses the relative merits of the nominees and continues to revote until a majority vote yields the recommended recipient. The committee chair will present the name of the proposed recipient with a report of the voting process, and the required documentation, to the chair of the Structural Geology and Tectonics Division for endorsement. The chair, in turn, may forward this information to all members of the management board for additional endorsement, or the chair alone may endorse the selection. Should endorsement be withheld, the board will consult with the committee as to the process to resolve the situation, but the management board retains the final approval for any recommendation to select an award recipient. This procedure must be completed by about April 1.

The division chair shall then submit the name and contact information of Award recipient to the executive director of the Society. The executive director will place the nomination on the agenda of the spring Council meeting for ratification, along with a paragraph describing the career contributions of this individual. After Council ratification, the Society president will inform the recipient of the award. The division chair will be notified at the same time. The citationist and awardee will provide copies of the award/acceptance statements for publication in the SGT newsletter or GSA Today.

5. Outstanding Publication Award Committee

- a. Selection Committee. The selection committee consists of a chair and two other voting members of the division who are not members of the management board. The members of the selection committee shall serve for three years with staggered terms, one new member being named each year by the division chair in consultation of the management board immediately following the annual meeting. The chair of the committee is the senior member as measured in time served on the committee at that time, unless otherwise specified by the division chair and management board.

- b. Frequency of the Award. Normally, a single award will be made annually, but in any particular year, it may be withheld if the management board decides that no suitable candidate has been identified.
- c. Requirements to Qualify. The award is made to the author or authors of a published work (paper, book, or map) of exceptional distinction which clearly advances the discipline of structural geology or tectonics. Candidates may or may not be members of the Geological Society of America and may be citizens of any country. The award may not be given posthumously unless the decision to give the award is made before the death of the awardee(s). Members of the selection committee and the management board are ineligible for the duration of their terms.
- d. The Award. The award shall consist of an engraved plaque and an appropriate certificate, which will be approved by the management board. If the award is to be shared in any one year, each recipient shall receive a plaque and certificate. The award will be presented at the business meeting of the division during the annual meeting. Normally, the recipient will be announced by the division chair. A person acquainted with the publication will present a citation reviewing its contribution and impact. The citationist will introduce the recipient to the division chair who will present the award. The citationist and awardee will provide copies of the award/acceptance statements for publication in the SGT newsletter.
- e. Selection Procedures. Nominations for the award shall be made in accordance with the following procedures:
  - (1) The secretary of the division will, at the earliest convenience, but no later than December 5, notify the chair of the selection committee with the contact information of the other committee members; a copy of the selection procedures; a list of past award recipients; instructions for submitting nominations; notification of the deadline for receipt of nominations by the chair of the selection committee. This information is available from the secretary for other members of the division upon request.

In addition, the management board will invite nominations from members of the division and the Society by communicating with the entire membership via an announcement in the newsletter of the Structural Geology and Tectonics Division and through other appropriate mass communication conduits. The announcement shall include: the Requirement to Qualify statement, the deadline date for receipt of nominations; the contact information for the selection committee chair who receives the nominations; and a request for information regarding nominees. Such information in support of the nomination should include a) name of publication, including full citation of author(s), title, affiliation, and address of author(s); b) statement in support of nomination summarizing the exceptional achievement or significance of the publication, along with any supporting documentation, published reviews, or discussions. Should no nominations be submitted by the membership, the committee may either choose to defer giving the award that year, or nominate publications with the necessary supporting information. This decision must be endorsed by the management board prior to implementation, and only applies to the current year. With the beginning of the nomination cycle for the next year, the award process will return to soliciting and evaluating nominations from the membership. If the award committee is empowered to nominate papers in a given year by the management board, the board must ensure that committee members do not submit nominations that incur a conflict of interest. The nomination process should be completed by February 28.

(2) The chair of the selection committee will distribute a consolidated list of nominated publications, together with supporting materials, to committee members shortly after the deadline for submission of nominations. Each member, including the chair, will select from among the list of nominees a first, second, and third choice for the award. These selections will be awarded by a score of three for first choice, two for second, and one for third, the results of this ballot being used to reduce the number of nominees to those who will comprise the ballot for the committee's final consideration of nominees. The committee then revotes to select a recipient for the Award. If needed, the committee further discusses the relative merits of the nominees and continues to revote until a majority vote yields the recommended recipient publication. The committee chair will present the name of the proposed recipient publication with a report of the voting process, and the required documentation, to the chair of the Structural Geology and Tectonics Division for endorsement. The chair, in turn, may forward this information to all members of the management board for additional endorsement, or the chair alone may endorse the selection. Should endorsement be withheld, the board will consult with the committee as to the process to resolve the situation, but the management board retains the final approval for any recommendation to select an award recipient. This procedure must be completed by about April 1.

The division chair shall then submit the name and contact information of Award recipient(s) to the executive director of the Society. The notification to the executive director shall include a paragraph describing the contributions of the recipient that are being recognized in the award.

6. Ad hoc Committees. Chairs of ad hoc committees may be appointed by the division chair with the concurrence of the management board. Recommendations for appointment of members of ad hoc committees will be the responsibility of the division chair, subject to the concurrence of the management board. The purpose of such committees is to deal with an issue of interest to the division that falls outside the duties of the standing committees and needs additional input from outside the management board. Such committees are established at the recommendation of the majority of management board. These committees are disbanded on completion of their work as specified in their initiating charge.

7. Division Representatives

- a. Webmaster. The division chair appoints a webmaster of the division. The term is for one year and reappointment may occur for an unlimited number of terms. The webmaster has responsibility for maintaining and updating the division website. The webmaster works in consultation with the division chair and management board to develop the content and layout of the divisional website.
  - b. Newsletter Editor(s). The division chair will appoint one or more editors for the newsletter of the division. The term is for one year and reappointment may occur for an unlimited number of terms. The editor or editors has the responsibility to produce a spring and fall division newsletter each year. The editors work in consultation with the division chair and management board to develop the content and layout of each division newsletter. Newsletter items are also solicited from the membership of the division and the broader structural geology and tectonics community. The chair assists the editor(s) in preparing the division newsletter.
8. Responsibility. Reports, recommendations, or other actions by appointed committees, other than the nominating committee, are subject to the approval of the management board. After such approval, the committee chair reports appropriately to the executive director of the Society if the attention or action of the Council is required and sends a copy of the report and subsequent correspondence to the Division secretary for archival purposes. Appointed committees shall present annual reports which are summarized in the annual report of the management board.
  9. Vacancies. If a member of a standing committee is incapacitated, resigns, or is otherwise unable to serve or complete their term of office, then the chair of the division, with the approval of a majority of the management board, either (1) appoints a replacement to serve the remainder of the normal expected term of office of such committee member, (2) appoints an interim replacement until the committee member is able to resume their duties, or (3) transfers the duties and voting privileges of such Committee member to the chair or past-chair of the management board. If a member of any ad hoc committee is incapacitated, resigns, or is otherwise unable to serve or complete their term of office, then the position vacated may be filled by the division chair or left vacant if deemed appropriate.

10. Amendment. These Rules and Regulations may be amended by a majority vote of the management board, or by a majority vote of division members present at the annual business meeting of the division, as stated in Article VIII of the bylaws. The date of adoption of the revisions shall be so indicated in the heading of the revised Rules and Regulations. Subsequent to passage of any amendments, copies of the revised Rules and Regulations are distributed to all committee chairs and a notice summarizing the revisions shall be printed in the next issue of the newsletter of the division.
