

Asset Management Training for First Nations and Indigenous Communities

Need help with your asset management journey? We offer customized training to meet the unique needs of BC's First Nations and Indigenous Communities. Whether you're just starting out or looking to advance your practice, we've got you covered. Partnering with NAMS Canada, we can provide training for your staff and Council.

1. Asset Management 101 for First Nation and Indigenous Chief and Councils

Elected support for asset management is key to successful service delivery, providing a solid foundation for decision-making. Increase awareness and support for sustainable service delivery with this informative and engaging workshop for your Chief and Council.

2. Start your Asset Management Journey for Sustainable Service Delivery

Build a strong foundation for managing your assets. Learn how to set up the policies, plans, and processes that will get you started on your journey.

3. Take your Asset Management Practice to the Next Level

Advance your asset management practices. Increase the ability of your teams to put your plans and policies into action. Reduce silos and improve support for sustainable service delivery.

Contact us today for a free consultation!

David Allen: davidallen@assetmanagementbc.ca

Asset Management Training for First Nations and Indigenous Communities

Why Asset Management Matters

- Ensure the long-term sustainable delivery of the services our communities rely on
- Make informed decisions with evidence-based data
- Reduce costly reactive repairs by proactively managing assets
- Involve key parties in asset management decision-making
- Meet legal obligations to care for community assets
- Improve access to funding for infrastructure projects

Who's This For?

Training is customized to meet the needs of your First Nation and Indigenous Community and can include:

- Chief and Council
- CAO and Senior Leadership/Department Heads
- Front Line, Operations
- Finance, Planning, Engineering, and Public Works
- Communications

NAMS Canada provides infrastructure asset management education, including training, tools and mentoring to Canadian infrastructure stewards.

Through education, networking, and leadership, AMBC supports BC's elected officials and staff to manage their assets, promoting sustainable service delivery for strong, resilient communities.

For more information:

www.assetmanagementbc.ca

davidallen@assetmanagementbc.ca

#OurAssetsMatter

