SASIG is a networking forum for CISOs, CIOs, CTOs and their teams. It focuses on the softer cybersecurity issues and looks to improve trust in the online environment, together with their 4,000+ membership that represents all sectors, public and private. SASIG provides a daily showcase of presentations, panel sessions and discussions with leaders from the cybersecurity industry, discussing all manner of subjects relevant to these times. There's plenty of advice on good security awareness and the need for a strong security culture. More details of their events can be found HERE, their programme for next week:

A cornucopia of cybersecurity good news Monday 17 August 2pm Gain insight into these excellent cybersecurity initiatives: 1. The Cyber Security Body of Knowledge provides knowledge from international experts; 2. The Cyber Helpline gives free, expert advice to cybercrime victims; 3. The Metropolitan Police Cyber Choices Team educates and deters individuals from cybercrime; and 4. The Deciphering the Cyber Market platform bringing users and vendors together. REGISTER HERE

Life is not fair: Interviews with the disabled and excluded Tuesday 18 August 11am Mark takes us on a journey in which we meet people striving to overcome unthinkable challenges. A single mother, a lawyer unable to practice, a child with Downs Syndrome who wants to be a star, and many more. Alternately heart breaking and heart-warming, we look at the barriers people face at work and consider the case that improving your employees' working lives goes way beyond compliance. REGISTER HERE

Pragmatic risk-based cybersecurity: How to use threat and risk analysis in your organisation Wednesday 19 August 11am We are delighted world-renowned security evangelist Peter joins us to look at the challenges of testing your cybersecurity. Our cyber enemies are sophisticated and strategic with clear objectives and lots of resources. To counter their attacks, we need a pragmatic approach to threat and risk analysis to feed our cybersecurity ecosystem and focus on protecting our most important assets. REGISTER HERE

To err is human, to keep doing it is idiotic. Why do we keep shooting ourselves in both feet? Thursday 20 August 11am There’s more shiny silver bullets than we can shake a stick at. Each one promises some variant of greater efficacy. So why, with all of this tech, are we still falling foul of attackers? Why is awareness and common sense the most overused terms in security but are never practiced. We explore some simple ways we can turn the tide of keeping our organisations secure in the online world. REGISTER HERE

What makes CISOs buy and what turns them off? Friday 21 August 2pm Buyer fatigue is widespread and sales techniques can be intrusive and counter-productive. But products and services are vital to the CISO's security strategy, and vendors an essential element of the solution. The best relationship between vendor and customer is one of trust built over time. We discuss what makes a CISO buy, how CISOs prioritise their wish-lists and what makes them buy. REGISTER HERE