Monday 30 January 2023, 11am-12noon (GMT)
The importance of security and privacy in operational and developer work https://www.thesasig.com/calendar/event/23-01-30-privacy/
Companies and consumers increasingly rely on applications for so many services. In December 2022, the UK Government published a world-first voluntary Code of Practice for App Store Operators and App Developers which sets out minimum security and privacy requirements so that users are better protected from malicious and poorly developed apps.

New! ISACA’s Privacy in Practice Report

ISACA released its Privacy in Practice 2023 survey report this week, featuring insights from 1,890 data privacy professionals from around the world

https://www.isaca.org/resources/reports/privacy-in-practice-2023-report

The study found that enterprises that consistently practice privacy by design reap rewards, but many face challenges getting there because of privacy budgets, staffing and skills gaps

Identity Theft Resource Center reports record high US data breaches Data breaches in 2022 hit near-record levels as U.S. organizations issued 1,802 data breach notifications and more than 400 million individuals were affected. But only 34% of breach notifications included actionable information for consumers whose information was exposed which makes it difficult for consumer victims to know what risk they face.
