Employers Are the Driving Force

Building Trust & Accountability in Health Care & Benefits

Employer-based health care coverage has risen at least 5% for six straight years. The total cost of care, including premiums and out-of-pocket costs for employees and dependents, is estimated to average $14,800 per employee. Large employers will cover about 70% of these costs, which leaves about $4,400 for employees. Benefit costs are rising at two times the rate of wage increases and three times that of general inflation. These trends are making health care unaffordable and unsustainable for employers who have little ability to influence costs, supplier contracts and the health care delivery system.

Change will occur when employers use their collective voice to:

1. Ensure that supplier partnerships are built on trust, accountability and transparency
2. Eliminate inappropriate and low-value care, waste and misuse in the system
3. Make sure people receive access to the highest quality, most cost-effective care, and maximize workplace culture and trust to increase engagement in health-seeking behaviors

At this conference you will learn from innovative employer purchasers and leading benefits experts on ways to more effectively manage costs and improve population health. Key topics include:

- Shaping Employee Benefits for an Evolving U.S. & Global Workforce
- Building Trust & Accountability with Employees in Health Care, Health Benefits & Communications
- Future of Health Plans in Advancing Value, Transparency & Cost Management for Employers
- Single-Payer Health Care – Myths, Facts & Lessons Learned from Around the World
- Examining How Companies Address Employee Concerns about the Changing Workplace
- Breaking Down the Barriers that Impact Access to Mental & Behavioral Health
