

Meet Us at the Crossroads of Materials Protection

AMPP Annual Conference + Expo

APRIL 11–15, 2027 | COLUMBUS, OHIO, USA | GREATER COLUMBUS CONVENTION CENTER

Join us for five days of focused technical sessions, an exposition floor filled with the world's leading solution providers, and social events where you can connect with thousands of colleagues and industry leaders from 140+ countries.

AMPP Annual Conference + Expo 2027 will be held in Columbus, Ohio, which sits at the focal point of the industrial United States. It is one of the most connected logistics hubs in the world, and it's a city built on connection, movement, and the convergence of people and materials from across the planet. Ohio, with its deep roots in corrosion-related innovation, materials selection, construction and application, and critical infrastructure, provides the ideal backdrop for such a significant event.

You'll experience:

The industry's most comprehensive technical program, spanning every major sector and discipline in corrosion prevention and materials protection.

The largest exhibit floor in the industry, where the world's leading solutions providers connect with the professionals who need them.

Unmatched networking with peers, collaborators, and decision-makers impacting our field..

Professional development hours (PDHs) included with full conference registration
