David Arrington, Owner & Operator, Arrington Oil

David Arrington's life is proof that success is possible when you embrace challenges with courage and determination. Growing up in Oak Cliff, Texas, David set out after college with no guarantees—only a dream and a willingness to work hard. Moving to Midland in 1984, he began carving his own path in the oil and gas industry. What started as a young man taking risks soon grew into a career that spanned multiple U.S. basins and placed him at the forefront of pioneering energy innovations in the Barnett Shale and the modern Permian Basin.

But David's story is about far more than oil wells. It's about resilience, vision, and the power of never letting fear dictate your future. From building a business to raising a family with his wife Shelley, David has learned that true success comes from adapting, persevering, and staying true to what matters most.

Today, David shares the lessons of a journey defined not by certainty, but by faith and boldness. His story invites you to reflect on your own path—and discover how you too can embrace change, push past fear, and create lasting success.
