

Association for Materials Protection & Performance

Alan Thomas, AMPP CEO

Alan Thomas is the Chief Executive Officer of the Association for Materials Protection and Performance (AMPP), where he is leading a global digital transformation that strengthens the organization's position at the forefront of materials protection, corrosion control and infrastructure resilience. With more than 20 years of experience driving growth, operational excellence and organizational transformation across industries, Thomas brings deep expertise in strategic planning, M&A and data-driven leadership. He is known for building high-performing teams, advancing sustainable business practices and guiding organizations to measurable, long-term success in dynamic and evolving markets.