

ANCC New Disclosure Statement and Requirements

NASN must ensure that all NCPD educational session(s) content is free of commercial interest, bias, and influence to maintain the highest quality of integrity of the content. Each nursing continuing professional development (NCPD) activity that NASN provides must be compliant with ANCC disclosure statement requirements. Which includes every NCPD activity listing any disclosures or indicating there are no relationships to disclose in the appropriate statement. The intent of this disclosure is to provide learners with information on which they can make their own judgement.

How to Determine if You Have a Relationship that is Required to be Disclosed to Learners, per ANCC Guidance

Ineligible company-an entity whose primary business is producing, marketing, selling, re-selling, or distributing healthcare products used by or on patients.

Financial relationships are relevant if the following three conditions are met for the prospective person who will control content of the education:

1. A financial relationship, in any amount, exists between the person in control of content and an ineligible company
2. The financial relationship existed during the past 24 months
3. The content of the education is related to the products of an ineligible company with whom the person has a financial relationship

Exclude owners/employees of ineligible companies from participating as planners/speakers unless one of the three exceptions apply:

1. When the content of the activity is not related to the business lines or products of their employer/company
2. When the content of the approved activity is limited to basic science research, such as pre-clinical research and drug discovery, or the methodologies of research, and they do not make care recommendations
3. When they are participating as technicians to teach the safe and proper use of medical devices, and do not recommend whether or when a device is used

Even though these exceptions exist –their financial relationship must still be disclosed to learners***
